MARKET REPORTS.

CATTLE.—DUBLIN METROPOLITAN, North Circular road, Thursday.—Our forecast of the value position of live stock that we ventured upon as a prefatory to last week's report under this head has been fully confirmed by to-day's proceedings, which heralded the further and more pronounced discounting of terms throughout. All the same, it may be reiterated, and must be apparent to all concerned, that until prices come back into a working zone, with safe margin for export operations, the coming trust seasonable increases in supplies cannot be dealt with or regularly absorbed. Therefore, in view of the hard and fast rates fixed for graded stock cross-Channel shippers are obliged to purchase cattle at this side inside 85/- or 86/- per cwt. on foot, and sheep and lambs around 1/3 to 1/4 per lb., with a possibility of cheaper autumn terms. The arithmetic of the situation in the circumstances is plain, and raisers of stock will be obliged sooner or later to bow to the inevitable. Although to-day's stock gathering was well within seasonable numerical dimensions, as the subjoined comparative figures show, scarcely half the market effected an exchange of ownership, owing to the suspended state of the export business. Cattle suffered a drop of a good 3/- to 5/-, and in some cases perhaps 6/- and 7/- per cwt., and sheep fell 8/- to 10/- and 12/- per head. Lambs were not so seriously discounted for suitable qualities, and so far no sales were practicable.

	Numbers on Offer. This week as compared with last.			Corresponding weeks of 1918.	1917.
Beasts	1,889	Increase	9	1,797	1,798
Sheep and lambs ..	9,410	Increase	2,450	9,168	9,951
Veal calves.....	2	Increase	2	—	1

A decidedly languid tone was manifest in cattle buying throughout, and with practically no opposition Northern and local victuallers found it easier to fit their requirements on cheaper terms. It appears, however, that the high prices paid for grass beasts last week worked out very unremuneratively in sink, owing to their soft condition, and biddings were consequently regulated to a safer sphere. For choice drafts of bullocks and heifers placed in early skirmish of dealings terms averaged 93/- to 95/- per cwt. on foot, with occasional and rarer cases of 96/-, 97/6, and 98/- for extra ripe specimens bordering on showyard types. Leading early sales concluded, 87/6 to 90/- became level of terms, and difficult enough to get for equally prime cattle. Medium bullocks and heifers rated irregularly and uncertain, anywhere from 80/- to 86/6 per cwt., and coarser sorts in proportion, but there remained a heavy carry-over unsold. At the lower current rates fat cows found fair enough patronage with certain fleshers, viz., best, 70/- to 80/- per cwt. Other sorts, 46/- to 67/6 per cwt. Fat bulls not so much in evidence.

The sheep and lamb market inside the first hour did not give much reason for serious alarm, but subsequently trade grew worse and worse with corresponding sharp downward trend in values. Choice wether mutton figured from 1/5 to 1/6 per lb., and for occasional fancy pens placed early perhaps 1/7. Heavy weighted wethers and best ewes, say 1/3 to 1/4 per lb., and common and coarser sheep 1/1 to 1/2 per lb. Best drafts of lambs averaged from 63/- to 75/- and 84/- each, and others 55/- to 60/-, according to character. For a few extra specially good prices were paid in early transactions, but most owners missing opening terms afterwards had bad experiences. In many cases pens of lambs previously bid for at 70/- to 75/- afterwards could not be cashed at 60/- or 65/-, and this position generally applied.

DUBLIN STORE, North Circular road, Thursday.—Entries for the respective auction dispersals of store cattle to-day again totalled a big gathering. Following the slacker and depressed trade throughout the country for store beasts and the unsatisfactory position of shipping biddings were disappointingly supported throughout, and where reserves were waived exchanges of ownership were only possible at generally smart concessions.

DUBLIN DAIRY, North Circular road, Thursday.—There were 208 milch beasts of very mixed character on the market. For the pick of choice heavy stockers rates went near previous figures, but generally the market was depressed, and £2 to £4 per head lower on average run of dairy cows and heifer springers, the latter being mostly affected by the fall in cross-Channel terms. Best heavy fresh milchers, £36 to £44, and a few top-toppers, £45 and £50 each. Small and ordinary cows, £19 to £35 each, according to age, condition, etc.

DUBLIN PIG, North Circular road, Thursday.—There was an unusually heavy market of pigs to handle, entries totalling 1,520 head. Buyers in full attendance, but cautious mood. Trade consequently slow and slumpy. Even the fact that most shipping men come in now on new allocations failed to speed matters up. Prices 3/- to 6/- per cwt. lower, with impossible clearance. Choice bacons and pork hogs, 144/- to 146/-, and perhaps in special cases, 148/- to 150/- per cwt. Other classes of pigs, 130/- to 140/- cwt.

GANLY, SONS AND CO.—Offices and Wool Stores, 18, 19, and 20 Usher's quay, Dublin.—Cattle Market Report, Thursday, 5th June, 1919.—Slower trade for all classes of cattle with prices generally favouring buyers. For finished beasts 95/- per cwt. occasionally realised. Secondary and inferior classes difficult to exchange at proportionally lower quotations. Sheep and lambs also met a more restricted demand, and prices all round were lower. Store Cattle Auction every Thursday in our Paddocks, 63 Prussia street, commencing at 11 o'clock. Entries invited. Wool—Opening Auction Wednesday, 25th inst. Consignments may now be sent on. Telephone No. 216. Telegrams, "Ganly, Usher's quay, Dublin."—(Advt.)

GAVIN LOW'S (LTD.) MARKET REPORT.—50 Prussia street, Dublin, 5th June, 1919. Supplies—Cattle 1,889, increase 9; sheep 9,410, increase 2,450. The supply of cattle was practically the same as last week, but trade was not so good, even for the best descriptions, and a clearance was difficult to effect at a reduction in secondary descriptions of from 2/- to 4/- per cwt. The large increase in the supplies enabled buyers to make their purchases cautiously, and lower prices had to be accepted for all classes of sheep and secondary lambs. There was very little alteration in the price of best lambs. Quotations—Best bullocks and heifers from 91/- to 98/- per cwt. live weight, others from 78/- to 90/- per cwt. live weight; cows and bulls from 40/- to 88/- per cwt. live weight; sheep (shorn), 1/4 to 1/8; lambs, 42/- to 82/-. Fixtures—June 10th to 13th—R.D.S. Show of pedigree stock. June 25th—Annual sale of wool; consignments should now be sent forward. Meadows to Let—60 Acres at The Ward, in divisions, 13½ Acres at Tallaght. Store Cattle Sale every Thursday.—(Advt.)

R. AND J. WILKINSON'S CATTLE MARKET REPORT, 5th June, 1919.—Trade for cattle was of a very slow and listless nature, and prices were more uneven, with the exception of a few fancy lots, which made up to 95/-, and in one case 97/-. It was difficult to pass 92/- per cwt. for good bullocks. A large increase in supplies of sheep and lambs, which were all somewhat cheaper. Best cattle 90/- to 93/-, others 70/- to 88/-; mutton 1/5 to 1/7 per lb.; lambs 40/- to 77/6. Beasts 1,889, increase 9; sheep 9,410, increase 2,450.—(Advt.)

LAURENCE CUFFE AND SONS CIRCULAR, 5 Smithfield, Dublin, June 5th, 1919.—Trade for everything except lambs was worse to-day. Cattle were about 5/- per cwt. lower; a very slow sale, and nearly half the market unsold. Sheep, which are pretty well all clipped, were from 3/- to 5/- under last week. Lambs made nearly late rate. Store cattle also about 3/- under last week. Fat cattle, 60/- to 95/- per cwt.; store cattle, 70/- to 88/- per cwt.; mutton, 1/- to 1/8 per lb.; lambs, 45/- to 80/- each. N.B.—Store Cattle Sale every Thursday.—(Advt.)

SMITH, GRIFFIN, AND CO.'S REPORT, 59 and 57 Prussia street, Dublin, 5th June, 1919.—The numbers of cattle about the same as last week. Trade much quieter. Best finished beasts made 94/-, and other classes 70/- to 93/-, and a clearance difficult to effect. Sheep trade not so good as last week, and rough classes made less money. Good, fat lambs a good trade, rough lots, not wanted. Quotations—Beef, 80/- to 155/- per cwt., or 70/- to 93/-, and extra finish 94/- to 96/- per cwt., live weight, mutton, 1/2 to 1/8 per lb., lambs, 50/- to 90/- each.—(Advt.)

DUFFEY, MANGAN, AND BUTLER, Cattle Salesmen, 37 Smithfield, Dublin—Market Report, Thursday, 5th June, 1919.—Increase of 9 beasts and of 2,450 sheep and lambs. Very poor attendance of buyers, and except for a few prime cattle which got placed early, prices were much lower, with a large number unsold. Steady demand for good, heavy sheep and lambs suiting home trade; other classes worse to sell and lower in value. Cattle, 60/- to 97/- per cwt., live weight; mutton, 1/4 to 1/9 per lb., lambs, 50/- to 85/-.—(Advt.)

HANBURY AND POTTERTON, Smithfield House, Dublin, June 5th, 1919.—Numbers—Cattle, 1,889—increase, 9; sheep, 9,410—increase, 2,450. Quiet trade for cattle, without material change in values. Business in the sheep department was worse, and prices considerably lower. Beef, from 90/- to 98/- per cwt., live weight; others, 60/- to 85/- per cwt.; mutton, 1/3 to 1/8 per lb.—(Advt.)

ARMSTRONG AND SMITH'S REPORT, 25 Prussia street, Dublin, June 5th, 1919.—Beasts, 1,889—increase, 9; sheep and lambs 9,410—increase, 2,450. Slow, dragging trade for cattle at 3/- to 5/- less per cwt. A clearance not effected. Owing to the large increase in numbers, sheep and lambs met a dull trade, with prices in buyers favour. Beef (best) 90/- to 94/-, extra, 96/- per cwt.; secondary and cows, 70/- to 85/- per cwt.; mutton, 1/2 to 1/5 per lb.; lambs, 45/- to 80/- each.—(Advt.)

PATRICK O'CONNOR AND SON, Auctioneers, Valuers, Cattle, Sheep, and Wool Salesmen, 49 Queen street, Dublin. 'Phone 535 Dublin, and 71 Ballsbridge. Cattle and sheep both in excess of demand, the latter showing an increase of nearly 2,500 head. The bulk of the business done was for home requirements, exporters being few in number, and trade in consequence was slow, prices showing a considerable falling off from previous rates, and a full clearance not effected.—(Advt.)

ROBERT CRAIGIE'S REPORT, 37 Prussia street, Dublin, 5th June, 1919.—Supplies—Cattle, 1,889—increase, 9; sheep, 9,410—increase, 2,450. A slow trade was experienced this morning for all classes of cattle, and with the exception of a few lots placed to local buyers lower prices had to be accepted. Owing to the large increase in number of sheep penned, prices were in buyers' favour, and a clearance could not be effected. There was a good demand for fat lambs, thin sorts difficult to cash. Quotations—Cattle (best) from 93/- to 98/- per cwt., live weight; secondary, from 80/- to 92/-; cows and bulls, from 60/- to 85/-; sheep, from 1/4 to 1/9½ per lb.; lambs, from 58/- to 80/- (exceptional, 90/- each). Annual Sale of Wool, Wednesday, 25th June. Woolpacks free on application. Telegrams "Craigie, Dublin." Telephone 2553.—(Advt.)

REPORT OF BERGIN, O'CONNOR AND CO., LTD., Cattle Salesmen, 11 St. Joseph's road, Dublin, June 5th, 1919—Supplies—Cattle 1,889, increase 9; sheep 9,410, increase 2,450. The cattle trade underwent an unfavourable change to-day. Prime finished lots were lower by 2/- per cwt., while secondary and other kinds suffered a fall of 5/- per cwt. There was a considerable increase in sheep and lambs. For the best descriptions of sheep there was a fair demand at a reduction in values of 3/- to 5/- per head. The inquiry for good lambs opened briskly, but eased off as the day advanced, thin lots being very difficult to clear. Quotations—Cattle, best, 90/- to 96/- per cwt. live weight; extra quality, 98/- per cwt. live weight; secondary, 80/- to 89/- per cwt. live weight; bulls, 75/- to 84/-; cows, 60/- to 90/-; mutton, 1/3 to 1/8 per lb. Telephone—No. 3860. Telegraphic address—"Approve, Dublin."—(Advt.)

JOHN P. CUFFE, Auctioneer, Cattle and Sheep Salesman, 73 Prussia street, Dublin.—Cattle Market Report, Dublin, 5th June, 1919.—Numbers of cattle practically the same as last week, but trade slow and dragging, and even for the best beef a reduction of from 4/- to 5/- per cwt. had to be accepted to effect sales. Rough cattle irregular in price, and a complete finish not accomplished. Sheep trade lively, but except for good-finished sheep and lambs suitable for home requirements, prices were lower. Best beef, 90/- to 95/-; mutton, 19d. to 21d. per lb.; lambs, 45/- to 85/- each. Meadow Lettings to-day (Friday), 30 Acres, First Crop, at Dunboyne, St. Margaret's, at 2 p.m. Millhead, St. Margaret's, same day, 20 Acres old meadows, at 2.30. Telephone—4840. Telegrams—Bullocks, Dublin.—(Advt.)

REPORT OF McKEOWN, MacKEOGH AND CO., Auctioneers, Valuers, Farm Produce Factors, Live Stock Salesmen, 4 Haymarket, June 5.—Cattle of all grades were slower. Early in the day prices for choice beef approached standard of late markets. Sheep were in excess of demand, and rates fell considerably. Lambs were also difficult to dispose of, unless at a reduction. Quotations—Live weight prime beef, 90/- to 96/- per cwt., and 98/-; secondary qualities, 80/- to 88/-; choice finished cows, 70/- to 80/-; mutton, 1/3 to 1/7 per lb., according to class; lambs, 50/- to 76/- each. Pigs—There was a very large supply, and last day's rates were difficult to maintain. Prices for bacon pigs average 108/- to 112/-, live weight; heavy shipping pigs, 120/-; dead weight heavy pigs, 144/- to 150/- per cwt.; choice middle weights, 148/- to 154/-, and 155/-; light bacon, 138/- to 144/-. 'Phone—Dublin, 3. Telegraphic address—"Factors, Dublin."—(Advt.)

LONDON METROPOLITAN, Thursday.—A moderate offering of fat cattle and sheep of various grades at to-day's market, and allotments were made at regulation prices.

BIRMINGHAM, Thursday.—A fair supply, though short of demand, and a brisk clearance at control prices, 21/- per score live weight, and 28/- per score dead weight.

BRISTOL, Thursday.—Beef in moderate quantity at regulated prices, 80/- to 85/- per cwt. live weight; milch cows realised up to £50 per head. Store cattle not so numerous owing to lack of demand caused by dry weather. Sheep in greater supply at maximum quotation of 1/4½ per lb., plus skin, plus 5/-. No pigs.

YORK, Thursday.—A lighter show of sheep, with a fair inquiry at about recent rates. Very small show of both English and Irish store cattle, and very little inquiry, though late rates maintained. Calving and milch cows were in fair supply, but probably owing to the unsettled state of affairs with regard to milk prices there was little demand, and prices were £3 per head down.

GRAIN.—FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES.—THE BALTIC, Thursday.—WHEAT—Market quiet at the established price of 80/- for all descriptions per 480lbs. MAIZE, quieter, offered; Americans and Argentines quoted 60/-; Africans 65/- per 480lbs. BARLEY, quoted 69/-. OATS [illegible] steamer cargo of No. 2 Canada Western June [illegible] 84/- per 448lbs. LIVERPOOL, Thursday.—The Liverpool Corn Trade Association have decided to suspend all operations in this market on Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday next for the Whitsun holidays. C.I.F. parcels of wheat were fairly active, but maize quiet, although prices showed no change. WHEAT on the spot in only moderate request, but prices unaltered. MAIZE—Spot parcels more or less nominal. FLOUR quiet, but some improvement in demand. The position is unchanged. Indian and parcels afloat, No. 1 red winter, No. 2 Manitoba, No. 3 Manitoba, Durham, mixed winter, and No. 1 dark Northern spring, all at 80/- per qr. BEANS—China and home quiet, Burmese 85/6. OATS—Irish white ex store realised 53/6 per qr.

MANCHESTER, Thursday.—Steadier tendency. Increased inquiry for foreign wheat, better Australian, recently offered, selling readily. Oats quoted 60/- per quarter. Oats in Indian Corn—Plate quoted 60/-, and Irish 56/- to 57/- per 336lbs. here. Flour quietly steady, unchanged.

BRISTOL, Thursday.—Limited supply of English wheat, with value unchanged. [illegible] Foreign wheat fairly plentiful and [illegible] showing upward tendency. Thompson's Custard

IF you are one of the few who have not yet tasted it you really must ask your grocer to send you a trial packet or tin to-day.

IS SIMPLY DELIGHTFUL AND DELIGHTFULLY SIMPLE.

It will prove a revelation to you as it has done to others who—until they had used THOMPSON'S—thought they had tasted custard at its best.

It is a very valuable food as well as a prime luxury. One ounce added to a pint of milk multiplies its own weight in food value. And the flavour! The captivating flavour that it imparts to rhubarb, fruits, tarts, &c., places these dishes in quite another category. You just try it.

Our portrait is of Mr. [illegible] of Kilblain Street, Greenock, who writes:—

"I had a very bad running abscess in [illegible] for some years. It was gradually getting [illegible] worse; it would get better and then break out again; it would get better [illegible] it would not heal. One day someone advised me to try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and after taking [illegible] bottles I could see a great difference, so I continued with it, and after taking [illegible] had disappeared. I was quite cured [illegible] very thin, but as soon as the abscess healed I began to fill out again."

Abscesses, Ulcers, Bad Legs, Glandular Swellings, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Sores and Eruptions, Piles, Rheumatism, Gout, are all sure signs of clogging blood impurity, and outward application is of little use. The only cleansing of the blood of the impurities can be no other remedy just as good as Clarke's Blood Mixture. Pleasant to take, and free from anything injurious.

MARKET REPORTS.

CATTLE.—DUBLIN METROPOLITAN, North Circular road, Thursday.—Our forecast of the value position of live stock that we ventured upon as a prefatory to last week's report under this head has been fully confirmed by to-day's proceedings, which herald the further and more pronounced discounting of terms throughout. All the same, it may be reiterated, and must be apparent to all concerned, that until prices come back into a working zone, with safe margin for export operations, the coming usual seasonable increases in supplies cannot be dealt with or regularly absorbed. Therefore, in view of the hard and fast rates fixed for graded stock cross-Channel shippers are obliged to purchase cattle at this side inside 95/- or 85/- per cwt. on foot, and sheep and lambs around 1/3 to 1/4 per lb., with a possibility of cheaper autumn terms. The arithmetic of the situation in the circumstances is plain, and raisers of stock will be obliged sooner or later to bow to the inevitable. Although to-day's stock gathering was well within seasonable numerical dimensions, as the subjoined comparative figures show, scarcely half the market effected an exchange of ownership, owing to the suspended state of the export business. Cattle suffered a drop of a good 3/- to 5/-, and in some cases perhaps 6/- and 7/- per cwt., and sheep fell 8/- to 10/- and 12/- per head. Lambs were not so seriously discounted for suitable qualities, and so far no sales were practicable.

	Numbers on Offer.	This week as compared with last.	Corresponding week of 1918.	1917.
Beasts	1,889	Increase 9	1,797	1,798
Sheep and lambs	9,410	Increase 2,450	9,168	9,951
Veal calves	2	Increase 2	—	1

A decidedly languid tone was manifest in cattle buying throughout, and with practically no opposition Northern and local victuallers found it easier to fit their requirements on cheaper terms. It appears, however, that the high prices paid for grass beasts last week worked out very unremuneratively in sinks, owing to their soft condition, and biddings were consequently regulated to a safer sphere. For choice drafts of bullocks and heifers placed in early skirmish of dealings terms averaged 93/- to 95/- per cwt. on foot, with occasional and rarer cases of 96/-, 97/6, and 98/- for extra ripe specimens bordering on showyard types. Leading early sales concluded, 87/6 to 90/- became level of terms, and difficult enough to get for equally prime cattle. Medium bullocks and heifers rated irregularly and uncertain, anywhere from 80/- to 86/6 per cwt., and coarser sorts in proportion, but there remained a heavy carry-over unsold. At the lower current rates fat cows found fair enough patronage with certain fleshers, viz., best, 70/- to 80/- per cwt. Other sorts, 46/- to 67/6 per cwt. Fat bulls not so much in evidence.

The sheep and lamb market inside the first hour did not give much reason for serious alarm, but subsequently trade grew worse and worse with corresponding sharp downward trend in values. Choice wether mutton figured from 1/5 to 1/6 per lb., and for occasional fancy pens placed early perhaps 1/7. Heavy weighted wethers and best ewes, say 1/3 to 1/4 per lb., and common and coarser sheep 1/1 to 1/2 per lb. Best drafts of lambs averaged from 65/- to 75/- and 84/- each, and others 55/- to 60/-, according to character. For a few extra specially good prices were paid in early transactions, but most owners missing opening terms afterwards had bad experiences. In many cases pens of lambs previously bid for at 70/- to 75/- afterwards could not be cashed at 60/- or 65/-, and this position generally applied.

DUBLIN STORE, North Circular road, Thursday.—Entries for the respective auction dispersals of store cattle to-day again totalled a big gathering. Following the slacker and depressed trade throughout the country for store beasts and the unsatisfactory position of shipping biddings were disappointingly supported throughout, and where reserves were waived exchanges of ownership were only possible at generally smart concessions.

DUBLIN DAIRY, North Circular road, Thursday.—There were 208 milch beasts of very mixed character on the market. For the pick of choice heavy stockers rates went near previous figures, but generally the market was depressed, and £2 to £4 per head lower on the average run of dairy cows and heifer springers, the latter being mostly affected by the fall in cross-Channel terms. Best heavy fresh milchers, £36 to £44, and a few tip-toppers, £46 and £50 each. Small and ordinary cows, £19 to £35 each, according to age, condition, etc.

DUBLIN PIG, North Circular road, Thursday.—There was an unusually heavy market of pigs to handle, entries totalling 1,530 head. Buyers in full attendance, but cautious mood. Trade consequently slow and slumpy. Even the fact that most shipping men come in now on new allocations failed to speed matters up. Prices 3/- to 6/- per cwt. lower, with impossible clearance. Choice bacon and pork hogs, 144/- to 146/-, and perhaps in special cases, 148/- to 150/- per cwt. Other classes of pigs, 130/- to 140/- cwt.

GANLY, SONS AND CO.—Offices and Wool Stores, 18, 19, and 20 Usher's quay, Dublin.—Cattle Market Report, Thursday, 5th June, 1919.—Slower trade for all classes of cattle with prices generally favouring buyers. For finished beasts 95/- per cwt. occasionally realised. Secondary and inferior classes difficult to exchange at proportionally lower quotations. Sheep and lambs also met a more restricted demand, and prices all round were lower. Store Cattle Auction every Thursday in our Paddocks, 63 Prussia street, commencing at 11 o'clock. Entries invited. Wool—Opening Auction Wednesday, 25th inst. Consignments may now be sent on. Telephone No. 216. Telegrams, "Ganly, Usher's quay, Dublin."—(Advt.)

GAVIN LOW'S (LTD.) MARKET REPORT.—50 Prussia street, Dublin, 5th June, 1919. Supplies.—Cattle 1,889, increase 9; sheep 9,410, increase 2,450. The supply of cattle was practically the same as last week, but trade was not so good, even for the best descriptions, and a clearance was difficult to effect at a reduction in secondary descriptions of from 2/- to 4/- per cwt. The large increase in the supplies enabled buyers to make their purchases cautiously, and lower prices had to be accepted for all classes of sheep and secondary lambs. There was very little alteration in the price of best lambs. Quotations:—Best bullocks and heifers from 91/- to 98/- per cwt. live weight, others from 78/- to 90/- per cwt. live weight; cows and bulls from 40/- to 88/- per cwt. live weight; sheep (shorn), 1/4 to 1/8; lambs, 42/- to 82/-. Fixtures:—June 10th to 13th—R.D.S. Show of pedigree stock. June 25th—Annual sale of wool; consignments should now be sent forward. Meadows to Let—60 Acres at The Ward, in divisions; 134 Acres at Tallaght. Store Cattle Sale every Thursday.—(Advt.)

R. AND J. WILKINSON'S CATTLE MARKET REPORT, 5th June, 1919.—Trade for cattle was of a very slow and listless nature, and prices were more uneven, with the exception of a few fancy lots, which made up to 95/-, and in one case 97/-. It was difficult to pass 92/- per cwt. for good bullocks. A large increase in supplies of sheep and lambs, which were, on the whole, somewhat cheaper. Best cattle 90/- to 95/-, others 70/- to 88/-; mutton 1/5 to 1/7 per lb.; lambs 40/- to 77/6. Beasts 1,889, increase 9; sheep 9,410, increase 2,450.—(Advt.)

LAURENCE CUFFE AND SONS' CIRCULAR, 5 Smithfield, Dublin, June 5th, 1919.—Trade for everything except lambs was worse to-day. Cattle were about 5/- per cwt. lower; a very slow sale, and nearly half the market unsold. Sheep, which are pretty well all clipped, were from 3/- to 5/- under last week. Lambs made nearly late rate. Store cattle also about 3/- under last week. Fat cattle, 60/- to 95/- per cwt.; store cattle, 70/- to 88/- per cwt.; mutton, 1/- to 1/8 per lb.; lambs, 45/- to 80/- each. N.B.—Store Cattle Sale every Thursday.—(Advt.)

SMITH GRIFFIN AND CO.'S REPORT, 56 and 57 Prussia street, Dublin, 5th June, 1919.—The numbers of cattle about the same as last week. Trade much quieter. Best-finished beasts made 94/- to 96/-, and other classes 70/- to 93/-, and a clearance difficult to effect. Sheep trade not so good as last week, and rough classes made less money. Good, fat lambs a good trade; rough lots not wanted. Quotations:—Beef, 80/- to 136/- per cwt., or 70/- to 93/-, and extra finish 94/- to 96/- per cwt., live weight; mutton, 1/2 to 1/8 per lb.; lambs, 50/- to 90/- each.—(Advt.)

DUFFEY, MANGAN, AND BUTLER, Cattle Salesmen, 37 Smithfield, Dublin.—Market Report, Thursday, 5th June, 1919.—Increase of 9 beasts and of 2,450 sheep and lambs. Very poor attendance of buyers, and except for a few prime cattle which got placed early, prices were much lower, with a large number unsold. Steady demand for good, heavy sheep and lambs suiting home trade; other classes worse to sell and lower in value. Cattle, 60/- to 97/- per cwt. live weight; mutton, 1/4 to 1/9 per lb.; lambs, 30/- to 85/-.—(Advt.)

HANBURY AND POTTERTON, Smithfield House, Dublin, June 5th, 1919.—Numbers—Cattle, 1,889—increase, 9; sheep, 9,410—increase, 2,450. Quiet trade for cattle, without material change in values. Business in the sheep department was worse, and prices considerably lower. Beef, for best, from 90/- to 98/- per cwt., live weight; others, 60/- to 85/- per cwt.; mutton, 1/3 to 1/8 per lb.—(Advt.)

ARMSTRONG AND SMITH'S REPORT, 25 Prussia street, Dublin, June 5th, 1919.—Beasts, 1,889—increase, 9; sheep and lambs 9,410—increase, 2,450. Slow, dragging trade for cattle at 2/- to 5/- less per cwt. A clearance not effected. Owing to the large increase in numbers, sheep and lambs met a dull trade, with prices in buyers favour. Beef (best) 90/- to 94/-; extra, 96/- per cwt.; secondary and cows, 70/- to 85/- per cwt.; mutton, 1/2 to 1/8 per lb.; lambs, 45/- to 60/- each.—(Advt.)

PATRICK O'CONNOR AND SON, Auctioneers, Valuers, Cattle, Sheep and Wool Salesmen, 49 Queen street, Dublin. 'Phone, 535 Dublin, and 71 Ballsbridge.—Cattle and sheep both in excess of demand, the latter showing an increase of nearly 2,500 head. The bulk of the business done was for home requirements, exporters being few in number, and trade in consequence was slow, prices showing a considerable falling off from previous rates, and a full clearance not effected.—(Advt.)

ROBERT CRAIGIE'S REPORT, 37 Prussia street, Dublin, 5th June, 1919.—Supplies:—Cattle, 1,889—increase, 9; sheep, 9,410—increase, 2,450. A slow trade was experienced this morning for all classes of cattle, and with the exception of a few lots placed to local buyers lower prices had to be accepted. Owing to the large increase in number of sheep penned, prices were in buyers' favour, and a clearance could not be effected. There was a good demand for fat lambs, thin sorts difficult to cash. Quotations:—Cattle (best) from 93/- to 98/- per cwt., live weight; secondary, from 80/- to 92/-; cows and bulls, from 60/- to 86/-; sheep, from 1/4 to 1/9½ per lb.; lambs, from 58/- to 80/- (exceptional, 90/- each). Annual Sale of Wool, Wednesday, 25th June. Woolpacks free on application. Telegrams "Craigie, Dublin." Telephone, 2555.—(Advt.)

REPORT OF BERGIN, O'CONNOR AND CO., LTD., Cattle Salesmen, 11 St. Joseph's road, Dublin, June 5th, 1919.—Supplies—Cattle 1,889, increase 9; sheep 9,410, increase 2,450. The cattle trade underwent an unfavourable change to-day. Prime finished lots were lower by 2/- per cwt., while secondary and other kinds suffered a fall of 5/- per cwt. There was a considerable increase in sheep and lambs. For the best descriptions of sheep there was a fair demand at a reduction in values of 3/- to 5/- per head. The inquiry for good lambs opened briskly, but eased off as the day advanced, thin lots being very difficult to clear. Quotations:—Cattle, best, 90/- to 96/- per cwt. live weight; extra quality, 98/- per cwt. live weight; secondary, 80/- to 89/- per cwt. live weight; bulls, 75/- to 84/-; cows, 60/- to 90/-; mutton, 1/3 to 1/8 per lb. Telephone—No. 3860. Telegraphic address—"Approve, Dublin."—(Advt.)

JOHN P. CUFFE, Auctioneer, Cattle and Sheep Salesman, 73 Prussia street, Dublin.—Cattle Market Report, Dublin, 5th June, 1919.—Numbers of cattle practically the same as last week, but trade slow and dragging, and even for the best beef a reduction of from 4/- to 5/- per cwt. had to be accepted to effect sales. Rough cattle irregular in price, and a complete finish not accomplished. Sheep trade lively, but except for good-finished sheep and lambs suitable for home requirements, prices were lower. Best beef, 90/- to 95/-; mutton, 19d. to 21d. per lb.; lambs, 45/- to 85/- each. Meadow Lettings to-day (Friday), 30 Acres, First Crop, at Dunbro, St. Margaret's, at 2 p.m. Millhead, St. Margaret's, same day, 20 Acres old meadows, at 2.30. Telephone—4840. Telegrams—Bullocks, Dublin.—(Advt.)

REPORT OF McKEOWN, MacKEOGH AND CO., Auctioneers, Valuers, Farm Produce Factors, Live Stock Salesmen, 4 Haymarket, June 5.—Cattle of all grades were slower. Early in the day prices for choice beef approached standard of late markets. Sheep were in excess of demand, and rates fell considerably. Lambs were also difficult to dispose of, unless at a reduction. Quotations:—Live weight prime beef, 90/- to 96/- per cwt., and 98/-; secondary qualities, 80/- to 88/-; choice finished cows, 70/- to 80/-; mutton, 1/3 to 1/7 per lb., according to class; lambs, 50/- to 78/- each. Pigs—There was a very large supply, and last day's rates were difficult to maintain. Prices for bacon pigs average 108/- to 112/-, live weight; heavy shipping pigs, 120/-; dead weight heavy pigs, 144/- to 150/- per cwt.; choice middle weights, 148/-, 154/-, and 156/-; light bacon, 138/- to 144/-. 'Phone—Dublin, 3. Telegraphic address—"Factors, Dublin."—(Advt.)

Our portrait is of Mr. Fred. Ings, of Kilblain Street, Greenock, who writes:—

"I had a very bad running abscess in the [illegible] for some years; it was gradually eating the [illegible] away—it would get better and then break out again. I was continually poulticing the abscess, but [illegible] would not heal. One day someone advised me to try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and after taking two bottles I could see a great difference, so I continued with it, and after taking the third bottle [illegible] had disappeared. I was quite run down, was [illegible] very thin, but as soon as the abscess had healed I began to fill out again."

Abscesses, Ulcers, Bad Legs, Glandular Swellings, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Sores and Eruptions, Piles, Rheumatism, Gout, are all sure signs of clogging blood impurity, crying for immediate treatment through the blood (outward application is of little use). For cleansing the blood of the impurities there is no other remedy just as good as Clarke's Blood Mixture. Pleasant to take, and free from anything injurious.

EPSOM MEETING

EXCITING FINISH FOR CORONATION CUP

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

EPSOM, THURSDAY.

A doubtful-looking morning developed in the desired direction shortly after midday, and it was a pleasant surprise to find the afternoon providing such improved conditions as compared with those which accompanied the racing on the previous day. The attendance was an excellent one, and the reduced card furnished quite a first-class entertainment.

The Coronation Cup, in which much interest was centred, attracted but three of the animals which were left in, Manton declining the tourney, and between He (a stable companion of the Derby winner) and Galloper Light, one of the finest finishes it is conceivable to imagine was witnessed. The pair joined issue nearly half a mile from home, and they were perfectly level one hundred yards from the winning line, but He finished in a manner one would expect of a descendent of Santoi, and in the end he defeated his game opponent by a head. It was an exhilirating finish, well worthy of the important stake at issue.

The Riddlesdown Plate, with which the proceedings commenced, provided an equally exciting finish, a head only separating the placed trio. The Surrey Stakes was an unsatisfactory sort of race, which Astafieva would probably have won had she started on terms with Lampetia. Brigand ran gamely enough in snatching the Royal Stakes from King Sol, who led from the start to almost the last stride.

The Horton Plate fell to the excellently bred Synai, who, however, only got the verdict in the last few strides, and it cost Mr. J. A. de Rothschild 810 gns. to obtain possession at the subsequent auction. To conclude a particularly brisk entertainment, Tinspear got home for the backers in the closing stages of the Durdans Plate, for which African Star made quite a brilliant bid from the distance. DERBY BETTING.

The starting price of Buchan for the Derby on Wednesday was 7 to 1, and that of Paper Money 8 to 1.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

It is stated that the Royal yacht, Victoria and Albert, will be commissioned on June 17th.

The two-year-old winners, Grey Abbey and The Drummer, have been sold out of P. Behan's stable at the Curragh.

Fergus Wave, the winner of the Town Plate at Tipperary on Wednesday, is trained by Mr. M. J. Harty at Croom.

Visitors to Tipperary races on Wednesday and Thursday were much impressed by the new service of trains provided by the G.S. and W.R.

After winning at Ballaghadereen on Tuesday, Rather Dark was purchased by Captain G. B. Morgan, and has joined Mr. Cleary's string at Bishopstown.

Mr. E. Kennedy's Prince Philip will meet his engagement in the Manchester Cup next week, and the son of Roi Herode will be ridden by Mr. Parkinson's capable apprentice, E. M. Quirke.

The hydrants at Sandown Park have been kept at work for the last fortnight, and there is little prospect of hard going being experienced there to-morrow.

At the meeting at Aintree next month the Executive are considering the advisability of instituting a Maiden Steeplechase of 500 sovs., to close in the coming autumn for the spring fixture, in place of the Stanley Steeplechase. Such a race, it is thought, is likely to command extensive support from Irish stables.

Lord Glanely, the owner of Grand Parade, is Chairman of the Tatem Steam Navigation Company, and prominently connected with other shipping and commercial concerns, mostly in South Wales. Born in 1868, he was created a Baronet in 1916, and was raised to the Peerage last year. He is a member of the Bath, Royal Thames Yacht, and Carlton Clubs. He registered his colours in 1909.

TIPPERARY MEETING—

SECOND DAY.

Another interesting day's racing was witnessed yesterday at Barronstown, where the attendance was much larger than on the first day. Edgar's Jewel, the favourite for the Junction Plate, jeopardised his chance of winning when he made a bad mistake half a mile from home, and, never being able to recover from this, he was easily beaten by Mangerton. Flavia, another runner in the race, fell at the first hurdle, and, though at first it looked as if F. Morgan, her rider, was injured, such fortunately was not the case. Sphagnum made a successful début over a steeplechase course in the Barronstown Plate, and if his fencing was not all that would be desired, his pace enabled him to easily dispose of the others at the finish. All four of the runners for the Tipperary Plate were supported, but Mirza, who was favourite, never left the issue in doubt. Martial Law proved the best of a moderate lot of horses in the Tally Ho Plate and Am, who jumped in flippant fashion, had no difficulty in winning the Tradesman's Plate. Details:—

2.30—JUNCTION PLATE of 25 sovs. A weight for age hurdle race. 1½ m.
Mr. J. J. Foley's b. g. MANGERTON, by Menander—Red Label, a, 10-4 (£60) G. Harty 1
Mr. C. T. Wallis' EDGAR'S JEWEL, 4, 10-9 M. Hines 2
Mr. M. F. Kelly's EAST CLARE, 6, 9-13 (car. 10-1) ....W. Miles 3

Also ran—Flavia (F. Morgan), Zealand (Mr. B. Kirby). (Winner trained by Mr. M. J. Harty.) Betting—11 to 10 on Edgar's Jewel, 2 to 1 agst. MANGERTON, 5 to 1 Flavia, 20 to 1 others. Flavia fell at the first hurdle, and East Clare set the pace to Mangerton, Zealand, and Edgar's Jewel, until half a mile from home, when Mangerton drew out, followed by Edgar's Jewel, and won easily by five lengths; four lengths. There was no bid for the winner.

3.0—BARRONSTOWN PLATE of 100 sovs. A weight for age steeplechase. 2½ m.
Lord Kenmare's b. g. SPHAGNUM, by Lomond—Brown Bracken, 4, 11-5 ....Jos. Canty 1
Mr. W. F. Power's DIMMER, a, 10-12 A. Hogan 2
Mr. J. Coghlan's ISIS, a, 10-12 (£60) J. Mahony, sen. 3

Also ran—Desert Sand (J. Hogan, sen.), Satisfied (J. M'Cormack). (Winner trained by M. Dawson.) Betting—2 to 1 on SPHAGNUM, 4 to 1 agst. Satisfied, 5 to 1 Dimmer, 8 to 1 Isis, 20 to 1 Desert Sand. Isis set the pace to Dimmer, Satisfied, Desert Sand, and Sphagnum for half the journey, when Dimmer went on, followed by Sphagnum, who drew out after the last fence and won in a canter by eight lengths; six lengths; others pulled up.

3.45—TIPPERARY PLATE of 50 sovs. A handicap flat race. 1 m. 3 f.
Mr. J. J. Parkinson's br. g. MIRZA, by Mirador—Noni Mac, 4, 9-12 ....E. Quirke 1
Mr. J. Murphy's VIVACE, 6, 9-5........D. Ward 2
Mr. N. White's JUDY M'CANN, 4, 9-0 M. Beary 3

Also ran—Flower Vale (H. Beasley) (Winner trained by Owner.) Betting—5 to 4 agst. MIRZA, 4 to 1 others. Vivace led from Flower Vale, Mirza, and Judy M'Cann, until quarter of a mile from home, when Mirza drew out and won easily by eight lengths; three lengths.

4.20—TALLY HO PLATE of 25 sovs. A weight for age flat race. 2 m.
Mr. W. A. Wallis' BLACK DEMON, 4, 10-7 Mr. Tuthill 2
Mr. H. M. Ryan's ALGOL, a, 10-7 Mr. M. M'Grath 3

Algol, 3 to 1 Fairbrook, 5 to 1 MARTIAL LAW, 6 to 1 Fort Elizabeth and Black Demon, 20 to 1 others. Martial Law took up the running at half way, and holding Black Demon at bay, won by two lengths; eight lengths. Come Forth 4th, Viva 5th, the others pulling up.

5.0—TRADESMAN'S PLATE of 50 sovs. A handicap steeplechase. 3 m.
Mr. M. Cunningham's b. h. AM, by Ambition, dam by Hackler—Avonbeg, a, 10-9 J. Hogan, sen. 1
Mr. W. F. Power's SPERANZA, a, 10-9 A. Hogan 2
Mr. J. Kelly's HARD NUT, 6, 11-0 J. Meany 3

Also ran—Captain Scott (Isaac Morgan), Three X (Joseph Canty), Kriwitz (J. M'Cormack). (Winner trained by Cunningham.) Betting—2 to 1 each agst. Captain Scott and Three X, 4 to 1 AM, 6 to 1 Kriwitz and Speranza, 10 to 1 Hard Nut. Am settled down in front of Captain Scott, Speranza, Hard Nut, and Kriwitz, with Three X last. Speranza took second place half a mile from home, but failed to make any impression on Am, who won easily by three lengths; same. Three X 4th, Captain Scott next.

THE NEW ERA
KARRIER
Commercial Motor Vehicles
STAND No. 77 DUBLIN SHOW
"You can carry your loads over any old road, when you carry your loads by 'Karrier'" and, Gentlemen, it must be evident to every business man in this community, that if we are to clear the huge financial burden with which we are faced, if we are to prove ourselves worthy of our ancestors and our posterity, if we are to play our obvious part in the moulding of the New Era which has burst upon us with such unexpected emphasis and rapidity, if we are to accomplish any or all of these paramount duties, there is not the slightest shadow of a doubt but that we must put our shoulders to the wheel of commerce—

We must take our stand on EFFICIENCY

Gentlemen, from time to time, possibly very frequently, the question of cheap and efficient distribution is no doubt the subject of anxious thought in your business. With the object of indicating the way out of TRANSPORT TROUBLES I have been commissioned to rivet your attention on the powerful claims of "KARRIER" Commercial Motor Lorries

As you are aware, the conditions under which Heavy Motor Haulage is conducted in this country are open to considerable improvement, and it will take time to create ideal conditions.

Meanwhile "KARRIER" MOTOR LORRIES, by reason of their great power (50 H.P.), strength, EFFICIENCY, and ALL ROUND ECONOMY (as certified by representatives of every trade and business in which motor lorries can be used to advantage), may be relied upon to meet your needs and perform even greater work than the makers claim for them.

To give you an idea of the running cost of "KARRIER" LORRIES, Messrs. J. Johnson, of the City Brewery, Durham, testify that their 5-ton "Karrier" Wagon, employed on very heavy work, cost £4 1s. 4d. for renewals and repairs after working 9,000 miles—LESS THAN ½d. PER MILE.

In another instance a "Karrier" Wagon covered 71,817 miles in 4 years and was only overhauled once.

And only a few weeks ago a "KARRIER" LORRY climbed St. Patrick's Hill, Cork (a gradient of 1 in 3.10), loaded with 33 bags (3½ tons) of cement, without the slightest trouble. Now, a lorry without reliability is no use to the man who wants profit out of his business—who wants the work well done. The lorry which makes transport more reliable makes it more profitable. The lorry which reduces the cost per ton-mile increases profit. Gentlemen, THE "KARRIER" performs this function in no uncertain manner, and you will find that the QUALITY which constitutes an investment is the sheet anchor of the "KARRIER."

Big Sugar Cargo for Dublin.—Due at the port of Dublin within the next eight or ten days is a large cargo of sugar from Java, which, in addition to augmenting ordinary supplies here, should prove ample and generous enough to allow a goodly percentage being utilised for the preserving of fruit during the coming season. The cargo is understood to weigh some thousands of tons, and its unloading should benefit the casual dock labourers at the port. It is a considerable time since such a direct shipment of sugar was consigned to Dublin, which otherwise depends entirely for its supplies on cross-Channel refineries, and on those on the Clyde in particular.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH (IRELAND) ACTS, 1878 TO 1919, AND THE HOUSING OF THE WORKING CLASSES (IRELAND) ACTS, 1890 TO 1908.

Whereas the Corporation of the City of Dublin have applied to the Local Government Board for Ireland for their sanction to loans of (1) £119,187 and (2) £19,125, for the purpose of defraying the cost of carrying into execution Improvement Schemes under Part I. of the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, in respect of

(1) the Newfoundland Street Area, and
(2) the Mary's Lane Area;

and whereas these sums, with the balances of the outstanding loans contracted by the said Corporation under the Sanitary Acts and the Public Health (Ireland) Act, 1878, would exceed the assessable value for one year of the premises within the district in respect of which such moneys may be borrowed:

Now, therefore, the Local Government Board hereby give notice that they have directed their Chief Engineering Inspector, P. C. Cowan, Esq., D.Sc., M.Inst.C.E., to hold a local inquiry in the matter of these applications, and to report to them thereon, and that the said P. C. Cowan will attend at the City Hall, Dublin, at 11 o'clock a.m. on Thursday, the 12th day of June, 1919, for the purpose of holding such inquiry.

Any ratepayer in the said City objecting to either of these loans being sanctioned may forward to the said P. C. Cowan a statement of his objection addressed to him at the office of the Local Government Board, so as to be received on or before Wednesday, the 11th day of June, 1919, and such objection will be taken into consideration.

By Order of the Board,
A. R. BARLAS,
Secretary.
Local Government Board, Dublin.
Dated this 28th day of May, 1919.

Newfoundland Street and Mary's Lane,

which areas were more fully described in the notices published in the month of February, 1917, in pursuance of Statute:

And whereas the Local Government for Ireland have directed a local inquiry to be held for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of the official representations made as to the Areas and the sufficiency of the respective Schemes made for their improvement, and any local objections to be made to either of such Schemes:

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of the said Act, I, P. C. Cowan, having been duly appointed to hold the said local inquiry, do hereby make public my intention to hold such inquiry at the City Hall, Dublin, on Thursday, the 12th day of June, 1919, at the hour of 11 o'clock a.m., where I will be prepared to hear all persons desirous of being heard before me on the subject of the inquiry.

FRIDAY, JUNE 6, 1919.

Lawlessness in Ireland.

Yesterday evening four policemen and a woman were shot in one of the chief streets of Dublin. The shots were fired in broad daylight, in the presence of a considerable police force and of a large number of civilians. A concert at the Mansion House, organised by the followers of the late James Connolly, had been prohibited, but the usual crowd assembled. When the police were dispersing it at the top of Dawson street four or five young men drew revolvers and shot a sergeant and three constables. The only victim of the second volley, which was fired immediately afterwards, was a young woman. None of the wounds was fatal, and we hope to learn that none of them is serious; but the outrage is, nevertheless, grave and startling. Its audacity is hardly less remarkable than the impunity with which it was committed. The police seem to have struggled manfully with their assailants, but these contrived to get away in the crowd. We are all familiar with similar incidents—too many of them tragic incidents—in lonely parts of Ireland. Now lawlessness has progressed so far that wearers of the King's uniform are targets for sedition in a main thoroughfare of the Irish capital. Yesterday also, within a few miles from Dublin, a District-Inspector of the Royal Irish Constabulary was assaulted. On Wednesday, as we report to-day, two men were shot at Tulla, in County Clare. It is suggested that they offended the "powers that be" by refusing to boycott a schoolmaster who had served in the Army. Nobody has been brought to justice for crimes which were committed weeks, and even months, ago. The murderers of the two constables in Tipperary, of Mr. Milling, of the policeman at Limerick Workhouse, of the sergeant and constable at Knocklong are still unpunished. The fault does not lie with the Royal Irish Constabulary, whose zeal and steadfast courage in their perilous work are beyond praise. It lies with Irish democracy itself, which refuses to help the Irish Executive to resist a degrading and soul-paralysing régime of terrorism. If the people of Nationalist Ireland dared to speak, eighty per cent. of them would declare their loathing of the prevailing lawlessness and their devout desire to be delivered from it. They know that it is bringing disgrace and sorrow to their country. They know that their own pockets must pay for outrages with which they have no sympathy. Under the new Compensation Act awards have been made out of local rates to injured policemen. The four men who were shot yesterday will have a claim—a perfectly righteous claim—upon the already oppressive rates of the City of Dublin. Yet the majority of Irish Nationalists, partly through fear and partly through apathy, make no protest, and thus aggravate the difficulties of the Government's task. That is a task, however, which, formidable and thankless though it be, the Government must fulfil with unfaltering purpose. Its first duty is to maintain the law, to enforce order, to pursue and punish crime. In the present state of Ireland no other duty is half so important as this or can be preferred to it for an instant.

The Peace Terms.

In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Ronald McNeill asked Mr. Bonar Law if it were true that strong pressure was being brought to bear on Mr. Lloyd George to secure certain modifications of the German peace terms. Mr. McNeill suggested that this pressure came from Labour and financial quarters; and, in another question, asked whether, or not, the Prime Minister was at variance with President Wilson and M. Clemenceau. Mr. McNeill's questions are the result of a widespread belief that minor changes in the peace terms are imminent. Mr. Lloyd George, who intended to visit England at Whitsuntide, has decided to remain at his post in Paris, and it may not be unsafe to assume that important decisions are being taken by the Peace Conference. The idea that Mr. Lloyd George has allowed himself to be influenced by Labour or finance in his attitude towards the Germans cannot be entertained for a moment; that either Mr. Ramsay Macdonald or Mr. Arthur Henderson would shake the resolve of the British Prime Minister is unthinkable. It is also extremely unlikely that he is "at variance" with his American and French colleagues. That he may contemplate some slight modifications in the Peace Treaty, however, is not improbable. Mr. Lloyd George is, perhaps, the least "provincial" of all the delegates at the Paris Conference, and is not a man to insist upon the letter of the terms if he believes that the future of mankind will benefit by concessions. He realises that the willing signature of the Germans, although possibly not essential, is highly desirable if the main—indeed, the only—object of the Peace Conference is to be attained. If minor concessions which do not involve any sacrifice of principle will hasten and ensure a real peace, the man who would insist upon his full pound of flesh would be but a sorry statesman.

Two factors have caused public opinion in this country to be very averse from granting any concessions to the Germans. One is their extremely unsavoury reputation, and the other the clumsy and arrogant manner in which they have conducted their plaidoyers at Paris. The French are inclined to insist upon the signature of the treaty as it stands, while realising that certain modifications may be expedient at a later date. If there is any difference of opinion between Mr. Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau, it is probably on the advisability of making whatever concessions are considered necessary now or when the peace has been signed. It is more or less generally felt that one or two concessions may be made, not in order to appease the Germans or to "let them off" in any way, but simply for reasons of practical and political expediency. There is little doubt now that, modifications or no modifications, Germany will sign the Peace Treaty. The only matter for doubt is whether, or not, she will be able to carry out the terms. It is essential that Germany shall pay to her utmost capacity for the damage which she has wrought, and thus compensate the Allies in some small measure for the enormous losses which they suffered at her hands. In order that payment may be possible, it will be necessary to allow German industry a certain amount of latitude; otherwise we shall get nothing. The Allies demanded payment of £1,000,000,000 within two years and a further minimum payment of £4,000,000,000. Germany proposes to pay the first £1,000,000,000 within seven years, and asks that her total maximum debt shall not exceed £5,000,000,000. The difference between the two proposals, as such, is not so great as to exclude consideration, especially as Germany will guarantee—for what her bond is worth—that payment will be made. She argues, however, that payment will only be possible if certain concessions are granted in the other terms.

It is suggested in certain quarters that Germany should be given a mandate over East Africa. From the British point of view, of course, this suggestion could not be entertained for a moment. If a concession must be made, it certainly must not be at the expense of the British Empire. Not only Great Britain, but France, is keenly interested in the African Continent, and one of the great enterprises of the near future undoubtedly will be the linking-up of British Africa with the French Algerian system by a railway. This railway must run through what used to be German East Africa, and it is essential that German influence shall be excluded. A more debatable suggestion is that Germany should get some slight concessions in Silesia. The Poles have very little cause for complaint. All things considered, their share of the spoils of war is fairly satisfactory, and besides, their attitude since the armistice has not been such as to strengthen confidence in their fitness to govern people of a different race. Be that as it may, however, the question which Mr. Lloyd George and his colleagues must answer is whether, or not, the voluntary signature of the Peace Treaty by the Germans is worth such concessions as it may be possible to make. They must be guided in their decisions by no feelings of sentimental compassion for Germany, and they must not give way on any matter of vital importance to the safety of the world. Neither questions in the House of Commons on the one hand, nor pathetic orations in Berlin on the other, must be allowed to bias the sound judgment upon which so much depends. The Council of Four is in possession of all the facts; it alone is fully qualified to decide.

The New Loan.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer announced, in the House of Commons yesterday, that the prospectus of the new Funding Loan will be issued on the 12th inst., and that a great campaign to stimulate public interest in the matter will be inaugurated four days later. The campaign will be conducted in a similar manner to those which made the War Loans such magnificent successes, and the National War Savings Committee, with its thousands of subsidiary organisations, will play a prominent part in it. These arrangements are admirable, but we cannot help feeling that the Treasury has made a mistake in refusing to give any indication of the amount of the loan and the terms which will be offered to investors before the prospectus is actually issued. In the first place, money is required to cover the deficit on the year's Budget, which Mr. Chamberlain estimates—very generously as the latest figures show—at £250,000,000. The main object of the loan, however, will be to fund as much as possible of the floating debt. This consists of short-dated securities, and has swollen to immense proportions during the last two years. It is having a most injurious effect on the financial position of the country, and, until the greater part of it is funded, the expansion of trade will be hampered. Every section of the community, therefore, has a direct interest in the funding operation. If it is to achieve its object the loan must be supported by every one to the best of his means and ability. A sum of one thousand millions would not be too much for the purpose.

Irish Golfers.

Golf, like every other pastime, has had a great revival since hostilities ceased. In Ireland enthusiasm for the royal and ancient game has never been greater than it is to-day. This was reflected in the widespread interest which the amateur close championship competitions at Portmarnock evoked. As the result of Miss Janet Jackson's victory in the final of the ladies' championship, which was played yesterday, honours are now even between the North and South. Her victory was a popular one, and she deserved it thoroughly. She played perfect golf, and, in the opinion of many competent judges, she would make a formidable opponent for Captain Carter, the Portrush player, who won the men's championship. That there is solid ground for this opinion is shown by the fact that Miss Jackson's total score for the first nine holes in yesterday's game was 37—two below the men's "bogey." It would be a happy idea if the Golfing Union—now when that vexed question of "sex disqualification" is disappearing in almost every calling—could arrange a "mixed" championship for next year. Captain Carter's victory in the men's competition was no less popular than Miss Jackson's in the ladies', and we take this opportunity of congratulating him upon it. He suffered from a serious handicap—lack of practice—for during the war he was engaged in playing the sterner game in France. We shall look to Miss Jackson and Captain Carter to uphold Ireland's honour in the open championships which will take place in the autumn.

THE NEW PROVOST OF TRINITY COLLEGE.

The appointment of a new Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, which is made by the Government, has been somewhat delayed by the absence from London of the Prime Minister, but the Press Association understands that the name of the new Provost will be officially announced either to-night or to-morrow morning.

PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL IN LONDON.

The President of Brazil was the guest of the Lord Mayor of London at the Mansion House yesterday. In the course of a reply to the toast of his health, the President said that he was deeply touched by his welcome "in this illustrious mansion, where one feels the proud beat of the generous heart of your grandiose city." Brazil did not forget the great share England had in her economic evolution. Brazil would rejoice in seeing her resume her part in commercial competition, and attend to the increasing requirement of her industries taking her contribution in the form of the immense wealth of Brazilian soil, and using to the benefit of her capital her energy and intelligence in the vast field Brazil had to offer. He concluded that he would make it a point during his Government to further and protect all initiative to that end, and it was "under the auspices of so reconforting a perspective" that he toasted the City of London.

The King gave a banquet in honour of the President at Buckingham Palace last night, when a large and distinguished company, numbering nearly 120, was present. Besides the King, the Queen, and President Pessoa, there were present Prince Albert, Princess Mary, Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught, Madame and Mdlle. Pessoa, the Spanish Ambassador, the Brazilian and Portuguese Ministers, several members of the Government, and their wives; the Speaker, Mr. and Mrs. Asquith, members of the President's suite, and others. The banquet was held in the State ballroom, and gold plate was brought from Windsor for the occasion. Yeomen of the Guard were stationed in the banqueting room, and the Royal Artillery band was present.

Proposing the toast of the President of Brazil, His Majesty said the friendly sentiments with which Brazil was ever regarded in Great Britain and throughout the Empire received a fresh stimulus when, by an act of high and enlightened policy, she broke with our enemies and frankly took her stand for the cause of liberty and independence. The moral effect of that step was far-reaching. Recollections of our alliance in the world war would serve to draw still closer the ties of sympathy and regard which united the two countries, and he was convinced that in the new era of peace they would be found in co-operation for the welfare and happiness of mankind.

The President, in reply, described Brazil as a loyal Ally and steadfast friend of Great Britain. With an anguished heart, he said, they had followed the varying fortunes of the gigantic struggle to which Britain set her soul that history might not step backward; and when, feeling the horrors of the monstrous scourge, Brazil placed herself beside Britain, she felt she had better die for the sake of honour and liberty than live in humiliation and servitude. Brazil was conscious of the debt she owed England.

THE AGRICULTURAL SHOW.

Invitation to Colonial and Allied Forces.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—At a meeting of the Show and Sales Committee, held to-day, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—

"That a hearty invitation be extended to all members of His Majesty's Colonial Forces, and also our Allies, who may be in Dublin during the period of the forthcoming Agricultural Show—June 10th to 13th—to visit the Show. All such in uniform will receive complimentary admission each day on presenting themselves at the members' entrance and signing the visitors' book."

The Committee hope that our kinsmen and visitors from across the seas will take advantage of this opportunity to inspect the stock bred in Ireland, and the many new inventions in agricultural implements and machinery assembled at Ballsbridge.—Yours, etc.,

EDWARD BOHANE,
Agricultural Superintendent.

WEATHER FORECAST

General inference.—An anti-cyclone extends from the Azores to south-west England, and will probably maintain rainless weather to-morrow over all districts, except the north and north-west parts of the British Isles.

Ireland.—Moderate to fresh south-south-west wind, cloudy or dull probably, temperature moderate to rather warm.

A Berlin telegram to Copenhagen states that at its meeting on Wednesday, the Constitutional Committee of the German National Assembly accepted the Government's proposal that black, red and yeld should be the colours of Germany's national flag.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
THURSDAY NIGHT.

"Private notice" questions in the House of Commons this afternoon were unusually numerous. The most important of them was put by Mr. Ronald McNeill, who desired to know if it were true that pressure was being brought to bear by persons representing labour and financial interests—Mr. Arthur Henderson and Mr. Ramsay Macdonald being specially named—to induce the Prime Minister to get the peace terms modified. Mr. Bonar Law said that he had not been able to communicate with the Prime Minister, but the House might rest assured that he would be influenced only by the interests of the country. Mr. McNeill then asked if it were true that Mr. Lloyd George was at variance with M. Clemenceau and Mr. Wilson, to which Mr. Law replied that, even if that were the case, he could not be expected to answer the question.

Here I may say that the rumours current regarding a difference of opinion in the Conference have probably a substratum of truth. A great many people who can in no wise be described as pro-German are of opinion, as Lord Henry Bentinck said in the House to-day, that some of the peace terms are not consistent with the principles for which we fought, or with the prospect of a permanent peace. In particular, the indeterminateness of the financial clauses, and the proposal that districts, almost wholly German in character, should be handed over to the new Poland meet with much criticism. The Polish Government, by the way, made a bad start by failing to prevent, if it did not connive at, the attacks upon the Jews which Mr. Harmsworth mentioned to-day. Some modification of the treaty, in these respects, would not be unpopular with the more steady-going section of the public, and, if that is what Mr. Lloyd George is striving for, he may be assured of a large measure of support.

An echo of the French-Asquith controversy was heard when General Croft suggested that Lord French had published confidential documents. Mr. Bonar Law said that his articles had been examined; that, while the publication of some of the documents was unauthorised, there was no reason to suppose that leave to publish them would have been refused, seeing that they would furnish no information to the enemy. The matter was now, he added, in the region of public controversy.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer announced that the prospectus of the new loan would be ready on the evening of June 12th, and that a popular campaign on the lines of those which were so successful during the war would be carried out by the War Savings Association. It will be inaugurated by a great meeting, at which the Prime Minister (or, failing him, Mr. Bonar Law) will speak on Monday, June 16th.

In the absence of the Chief Secretary and the Attorney-General for Ireland, Mr. Denis Henry Henry, the Solicitor-General, made his début as a Ministerial spokesman. He acquitted himself very well, and withstood the heckling of Mr. MacVeagh with much coolness, refusing to lose his equanimity or to make the admissions he desired. Mr. MacVeagh was reduced to the somewhat ineffective gibe, "You do not seem to read the newspapers."

A few months ago everybody thought that the silk hat had had its day, and would never be seen again at outdoor social functions. It was little seen during the war, but at the Derby yesterday it was noticed that it had resumed its supremacy. In the Club Stand the silk hat was general wear, and that alone is sufficient to show that it will once again become de rigeur at fashionable functions.

The serious coal position, as stated by Sir Auckland Geddes, has caused considerable alarm among London householders. Coal is now so dear that economy in use is dictated as much by the cost as by the scarcity. An addition of four shillings and sixpence a ton to the high prices now ruling would mean a considerable amount, if consumption were not limited, but, seeing that few people are allowed more than five tons a year, it is not altogether the increased cost. The anxiety is due to the fact that the increased cost of fuel will be reflected in every other article of merchandise. From a national standpoint the prospect is even more serious. The big drop in the export from 34,000,000 tons to 25,000,000 tons is critical.

Our Allies also will suffer in common with us, for only those English people who are in the habit of travelling on the Continent know what English coal means to France, and more particularly to Italy. Another factor in the anxiety felt is that the promises of the mining leaders that increased production would result have been falsified. Higher wages and shorter hours have produced a falling off of more than 10,000,000 tons of coal per annum.

The Irish situation is daily attracting more attention, largely owing to the revelations which are being made as to the international complications of the Irish revolutionary movement. It is now becoming clear that it is one of the weapons by which the enemy is seeking to destroy the solidarity of the Allies and British civilisation. At a meeting recently held, at which Sir William Mahon presided, General Sir O'Moore Creagh referred to the Indian situation, and pointed out the curious parallelism between the Indian and Irish movements.

Owing to the existing Press restrictions the true facts of these movements have not reached the British public, and at the meeting referred to it was decided to form a large women's committee, under the auspices of the Irish Unionist Alliance, to make the facts more generally known. Mr. J. L. Green, M.P., who spoke at the meeting, laid great stress on the importance of making British trade unionists aware of the real nature of the so-called Irish Labour movement. Lady de Ros has consented to act as chairman of the organising committee.

The Irish Department of Agriculture is removing its London business from the Irish Office to one of the picturesque houses in Queen Anne's Gate, not many yards away, where there is more room. The accommodation at the Irish Office has long been overcrowded. By the way, the building is now indulging in redecoration and repairs. It needed them very badly.

NEW WAR LOAN.

PROSPECTUS TO BE ISSUED ON 12TH JUNE.

A PUBLIC CAMPAIGN TO MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S APPEAL.

Mr. Chamberlain, in reply to Mr. J. Jodrell, in the House of Commons yesterday, said that he had asked the National War Savings Committee to conduct a campaign on lines similar to those which it had successfully organised and carried out on previous occasions. He had ascertained from Sir R. Kindersley that the preparations for this campaign were already in an advanced stage. He should like to take this opportunity of asking the local authorities throughout the country to co-operate in every possible way with the local War Savings Committees in their areas. He was confident that the Press would give this campaign the same whole-hearted support which they had given in the past, and he hoped to make arrangements for the direction of publicity by a gentleman associated with the Press, in co-operation with the National War Savings Committee, and for the organisation of an Information Bureau for the convenience of the Press. It was his present intention to issue the prospectus of the new Loan on the evening of the 12th June, and the campaign would be opened by a public meeting at the Guildhall, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor, on Monday, June 16th, at which, he hoped, the Prime Minister would be present and speak, but, should he be detained in Paris, the Leader of the House had consented to take his place. The meeting would be followed by a conference of the secretaries of local War Savings Committees of towns of over 10,000 inhabitants. Mr. Chamberlain appealed to all members of the House to give their most active support to the campaign on the public platform and amongst their constituencies, and so assist in securing the complete success of the issue. (Hear, hear.)

MR. GOSLING AND THE USE OF POWER.

SOLDIERS AND STRIKES.

The annual council meeting of the National Transport Workers' Federation, one of the bodies forming the Triple Alliance, was held at Swansea yesterday, the President, Mr. H. Gosling, in the chair.

In the opening address the President said that the Federation now covered practically the whole of the ports in Great Britain. [illegible] reference to the improvements obtained [illegible] working conditions and wages, marked [illegible] ance had been received from the miners [illegible] railway workers.

When the Alliance was just formed, said the President, there were those in our ranks who doubted the wisdom of the step, but events and experience have convinced the most doubtful that there exists in the power of the [illegible] Alliance more possibilities than ever existed previously in any other organisation of [illegible] movements. Together with the miners and railwaymen, we have succeeded in reducing the working week to a number of hours [illegible] from 44 to 48, and in many instances have decreased hours while increasing pay.

Many of the more unscrupulous politicians and certain public men are never tired of [illegible] ing us that the present form of our industrial organisations assumes the shape of a trial of strength, not between ourselves and the employing class, but between ourselves and the community. This is nothing more or less than a malicious falsehood, and it comes with ill grace from those who have utilised the circumstances of the war to exact millions from the community in profits. We are told that the power of our organisation and character of our demands are such as to bring about a collapse of the system of society in which we live. Our reply is to state clearly and emphatically that, be the consequences as they may, we are going to proceed on the sound lines advised by the Prime Minister, and be as audacious as the circumstances warrant. (Cheers.)

Referring to the recent secret circular issued by the War Office, the President went on: The entire trade union is offering increasing opposition to this infamous document which practically requires that our soldiers, [illegible] of whom are trade unionists, should be used as organised blacklegs against their comrades who are engaged in trade union activities. None of us would look lightheartedly upon a general strike as a protest against this mischievous action supported and endorsed by the Government, but all the consequences such as a strike would entail would be preferable to allowing the Government to use our troops as strike-breakers. I want this Conference to warn the Secretary for War and the Cabinet that the patience of organised workers may be tested to breaking point. (Cheers.)

Mr. Gosling, continuing, said that they would not associate themselves with the Government's national industrial council, which they regarded as only a temporary expedient to checkmate the workers' demands in that matter. They were loyal to the spirit and purpose of the Triple Alliance. Although only a few months ago the Prime Minister made [illegible] promises regarding legislation to reduce the working day and generally improve conditions of workers, those promises had been lost sight of now, but they felt they had weathered the storm. The trade union movement was the workers' first line of defence. (Cheers.)

A scene occurred at the conclusion of the President's address when Mr. Havelock Wilson said he wanted to move the rejection of Mr. Gosling's report.

Mr. James Sexton, who had temporarily taken the chair, said this was [illegible] usual attitude to take up. It was not a report, but an address, and was merely an individual expression of opinion.

The Secretary (Mr. Robert Williams) [illegible] that every point, controversial or otherwise, raised in the President's address would be covered in the Executive's report and could then be challenged.

Mr. Havelock Wilson—I take strong exception to a lot of statements made in the President's report.

A resolution of thanks to the President was carried.

It was decided to take the Executive's report at a later stage of the Conference.

Mr. Will Thorne, speaking of [illegible] to be discussed, said one of the most important proposals was to get war bonuses converted into a standard rate of wages.

Much discussion arose on a proposal [illegible] by Mr. Ernest Bevin for the Executive [illegible] the affiliation contribution should be [illegible] from 4d. to 6d. per member per annum.

Mr. Havelock Wilson said the Federation had quite sufficient funds in hand, and he supported the rejection of the increase. [illegible] give the Executive more money [illegible] can imagine them sending men [illegible] other trip over to the Continent to shake hands with their German brothers. (Cries of dissent.)

Mr. Wilson said he wanted to know who authorised the expenditure [illegible] counts for the attendance of [illegible] International Transport Federation Conference.

Mr. Sexton said this question could be [illegible] when the accounts were before them. He was as much up against shaking hands with those responsible for the war as Mr. Wilson, but he could not for ever alienate the international spirit of their organisation.

Mr. E. Cathery, Sailors' and Firemen's Union, also strongly criticised the proposal to increase the fees.

Mr. Ben Smith, Licensed Vehicle Workers' Union, said that the Federation had been hampered by lack of sufficient funds.

On a card vote the motion to increase was carried by 164,000 votes to 84,000.

The Conference adjourned till to-day.

THE MARCONI COMPANY'S ACTION.

The hearing was resumed in King's Bench, London, yesterday of the arbitration between the Marconi Company and the Crown to assess damages under contract to construct wireless stations.

Mr. Godfrey Isaacs continued his evidence under cross-examination by the Solicitor-General. The latter questioned the estimate that the wireless business of the projected imperial chain would increase by 5 per cent. annually, and asked the witness whether there was any long distance business which showed an annual increase of 5 per cent. on a number of years.

Mr. Isaacs instanced the services between Honolulu and San Francisco, but took as another example, as wireless had not been working long enough to permit of multiplication of instances. It might be [illegible] less traffic between Clifden and Glace Bay in 1915 was only three per cent. of the cable traffic, and in 1917 only four per cent. The Marconi Company had not attracted much traffic to the wireless beyond a very small extent. He had only said that the company had done a certain amount of [illegible] contention throughout was that wireless increased the traffic. Wireless did not take from the cable traffic, but by rate reduction made additional traffic.

The hearing was adjourned till to-day.

THE DUBLIN HOTELS' DISPUTE.

VOTE AGAINST ACCEPTING EMPLOYERS' OFFER.

A general meeting of the Dublin hotel employés, who are members of the Irish Transport Workers' Union, and are out on strike as the result of a dispute with the employers in regard to wages and conditions of employment, was held in the Trades' Hall, Capel street, last night, when a ballot was taken on the question of accepting the offer made on behalf of the Hotel and Tourist Association. The result of the ballot was that 14 voted in favour of accepting the offer, and 482 voted against.

Sir D. Plunket Barton held a conference at the offices of the Ministry of Labour, Dublin, yesterday, in relation to the demand made by the men employed in the Phœnix Park Distillery, Chapelizod, for an increase of [illegible] in their wages.

Arrangements have been made for a meeting at the offices of the Ministry of Labour, Dublin, this morning for the purpose of considering the proposal to establish a Joint District Council for Ireland of the National Saw-Milling Joint Industrial Council, and it is stated that in the event of such a Council being formed, the question of wages, hours and conditions will be discussed at a meeting of delegates to be held in the afternoon. The Irish Transport and General Workers' Union and the National Amalgamated [illegible] are to be represented at the [illegible].

CORK CORPORATION CLERKS' STRIKE.

The Cork Corporation clerical staff, who have been on strike since last Friday night, resumed duty yesterday, pending arbitration on their claims by the Cork Conciliation Board. Rev. Father Thomas, Hon. President Cork Trades Council, secured from the Lord Mayor a promise that he would bring the claims of the clerical staff before the next meeting of the Council. [illegible] was caused to the Corporation [illegible] by the strike, as [illegible] produce as usual, being unaware [illegible] and found no staff there with [illegible] many had to carry the produce back again.

A Copenhagen telegram states that the Socialist paper Folkets Dagblad received a telegram dated Petrograd, saying that Koltchak was beaten not only on the south front, but [illegible] also suffered severe defeat.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

AN AMAZING RUMOUR.

Astonishment and anger would fill the overwhelming majority of the British peoples, says The Times, could they credit the rumours from Paris, that the Prime Minister is weakening over the Allied demands in face of the German counter-proposals. Nothing could be more disgraceful to a British statesman than such weakening; nothing could more fatally impair the credit in this country or the credit of England and of the Empire with our Allies and with the world. Mr. Lloyd George has spent months, with the assistance of a host of experts, in the consideration of these demands. It has been proclaimed, with his apparent assent and approbation, that they are immutable in all essentials. Tergiversation or shilly-shally comes too late. It is absurd to suggest that either could be caused by the German counter-proposals, or by any change in the foreign situation. Certain newspapers which were proud to carry the German colours, and to adopt the German views of the German case up to the eve of the war, are, continues The Times, now reverting to their old practice, and championing their former spiritual home. The Labour Party are repeating the blunder which some of their leaders made over the Stockholm Conference, and taking over, untaught by experience, the pleas which Herr Erzberger and other astute international psychologists served up for the English "softies." Manifestations of this kind might conceivably influence a party leader with a keen eye for organised votes, and an imperfect perception of the deeper currents which move the country. If Mr. Lloyd George were suddenly to seek salvation by throwing over the mature decisions taken by himself and his colleagues, it is in domestic incidents of this kind, rather than in the German counter-proposals, that we should be constrained to look for an explanation. We trust we may be spared the necessity of seeking such an explanation, but there is strong ground for the belief that Mr. Lloyd George has of late been inclined to take up an attitude towards the Germans far less consistent than that of President Wilson and M. Clemenceau. We expect, and the people of this country expect, the British Prime Minister to be at least as firm in his treatment of the enemy as are his two principal associates in the leadership of the Peace Conference.

AMERICAN AND BRITISH VIEWS.

In American newspaper circles it is pointed out that all through the early Peace Conference negotiations President Wilson was known to be in favour of fixing some definite sum for Germany to pay as reparation for war damages, remarks The Times Political Correspondent in Paris. This was opposed by Mr. Lloyd George, who alleged that he was bound by promises to the British people that Germany should pay the full measure of reparation, and that no one could say to-day either how much that would be, or how much Germany could afford to pay under post bellum conditions. Mr. Wilson, therefore, agreed to the Financial Commission plan, against virtually the unanimous advice of his financial experts. To-day it is understood that Mr. Lloyd George is seeking to get Mr. Wilson to agree to changes in the Peace Terms along the lines which Mr. Wilson himself formerly favoured. The view held by Americans is that Mr. Lloyd George is placing the President in a somewhat false and very difficult position. The President's friends are irritated at what they believe to be manœuvring to make it appear that Mr. Wilson has changed his mind.

THE DEVOLUTION INQUIRY.

It is understood, says The Times Parliamentary Correspondent, that the Government have decided to set up a Parliamentary body to inquire into, and report upon, Federal Devolution after the Whitsuntide recess. Ministers were greatly impressed by the volume of opinion expressed in favour of the change in the two days' debate in the House of Commons this week. The terms of reference need careful consideration, and they will not necessarily be those which were suggested in Major Edward Woods' motion. The constitution of the inquiry, too, will be a delicate matter, the most favoured proposal being that it should be a round table conference of members of both Houses and all parties, of the kind which reported last year on the reform of the House of Lords. The choice of a chairman is all-important. The Speaker would, undoubtedly, be the most acceptable of all nominations.

UNIONIST ULSTER AND DEVOLUTION.

Major the Hon. Hugh O'Neill, M.P., writing to The Times under yesterday's date, says—Your leading article to-day on Devolution contains a sentence which gives an altogether inaccurate impression as to the attitude of those Ulster members who took part in the debate. You say, "The Ulster remnant who ignored Sir Edward Carson's lead spoke to an indifferent House, which had made up its mind that the attempt to represent Devolution as a subtle assault on the liberties of Ulster was insincere as well as stupid." Apart from Sir Edward Carson, the only Ulster members who spoke were Mr. Lindsay and myself. Mr. Lindsay dealt with the motion on general lines, and merely touched upon Ireland in the last sentence of his speech by expressing his opinion that Devolution would not settle the Irish question. I myself, treating the Irish aspect of the proposal rather more fully, said that the scheme had one great advantage over all previous attempts at Home Rule, in that it foreshadowed equal treatment for the different parts of the United Kingdom, an equality for which Ulster has always contended. My words were—"I regard a suggested solution of the Irish question, which is based upon the same treatment of Ireland as for the rest of the United Kingdom, in a very different light from that in which I regard a settlement based either upon the old Home Rule schemes, or upon the modern fantastic and impossible idea of Dominion Home Rule." I then went on to say that no scheme of Devolution would be acceptable to Ulster unless she was treated as a separate unit within it. This was also Sir Edward Carson's view, as well as that of the many members who recognised that a system of Devolution might very well necessitate more than one local assembly, whether within England, Ireland, or Scotland. Your summary of the Ulster attitude in the discussion is thus hardly in keeping with the views which were, in fact, expressed, and which were in complete accord with those of Sir Edward Carson.

In a footnote, The Times offers the following comment—Our point was that the Ulster members, among whom Mr. Ronald McNeill is generally included, were distinctly more hostile to the Devolution motion than Sir Edward Carson, and that the motive for this was not in doubt.

UNITED STATES SPECULATION FEVER.

The dramatic collapse of the Stock markets which marked the close of yesterday's trading is generally regarded as a fortunate event, states The Times New York Correspondent under Wednesday's date. To-day's recovery was general. The mad fever of speculation which had infected the whole country was regarded with undisguised alarm by prudent business houses. For months past money has been pouring like a Niagara Fall into Wall street. Some of the more speculative motor and other Stocks climbed last week from 20 to 30 points. It was in vain that bankers and financiers sounded a note of warning. Viewing the spectacle of hundreds of paper fortunes made every day, the nation appeared to be afflicted with a frenzy of indiscriminate buying, and Stocks changed hands at the rate of a million and a half to two million dollars a day. The hope of financiers is that yesterday's sensational nose-dive will act as a deterrent on the wild recklessness of speculators. It is impossible, however, to foretell how the flight of Stocks will end. The market long ago escaped from the control of professional operators into the hands of the general public, which is playing the national game of margin trading with an abandon rarely witnessed before even in New York.

PREMIER AND THE PEACE TERMS.

POSSIBILITIES OF CONCESSIONS.

ALLEGED INFLUENCES AT WORK.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S DENIAL.

Our Paris Correspondent telegraphed on June 5th:—

The Germans, in their counter-proposals, make certain criticisms against the Treaty. It is a fact that nearly every Delegation in Paris at present is divided in its attitude to the future steps. From French official sources it is stated that America and France are standing together, against any alteration of the terms. The French Press is criticising Mr. Lloyd George for his supposed desire to favour the Germans and treat them leniently. These statements are emphatically not true. The American Delegation all along has been hostile to pushing matters to the extreme, as the resignation of so many members, after the presentation of the terms, shows. Mr. Lloyd George certainly is in favour of certain changes, but they are of such a character to insure the peace of Europe and to get a Treaty signed which will have a reasonably good chance of being honoured. The hurry with which the Treaty had to be drawn up meant that the various parts were assembled without sufficient time having been available for considering the document as a whole. It is seen now that, in certain respects, its various parts are incompatible.

Let it be clearly understood that we have a right to be heard in this matter. At all costs the world must have peace, and have it now. France is, again in the grip of a wide strike epidemic. The present Government has long outlived its claim to popularity. Everywhere transport is ceasing, and it is feared that the food caterers will join the movement. Discontent prevails in all directions. It is no time for splitting hairs. Whatever the Premier's proposals are, it behoves the British people to give them a fair hearing. He, of all men, in his conduct of the blockade, was most instrumental in effecting the crushing of Germany.

PREMIER'S ATTITUDE.

STATEMENT BY MR. BONAR LAW.

Mr. Ronald McNeill, in the House of Commons yesterday, asked the Leader of the House whether his attention had been called to the report that certain Labour leaders, and other personages of political and financial influence, had brought pressure to bear on the Prime Minister to modify the terms of peace in a manner favourable to Germany; whether the persons referred to included Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and Mr. Arthur Henderson; and whether he would relieve the serious anxiety of the public caused by this report. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Bonar Law—I have not had time since I received notice of this question to communicate with Paris, but I do not think that there is any cause for the anxiety to which the hon. gentleman refers. I can assure the House that neither the Prime Minister nor any other delegate will be influenced by any particular interests, but will be guided by what they believe to be the public interests. (Cheers.) As a matter of fact, also, I feel certain that the Prime Minister has not seen—though, of course, he would have a perfect right to do so if he chose—either of the gentlemen named, and to the best of my knowledge the only people whom he has consulted are the British and Overseas delegates, and a considerable number of his colleagues in the Government who went to Paris for the express purpose of discussing the matter with him.

Mr. Bonar Law was understood to say, further, that whilst his colleagues might have political influence, he was sure that none of them had any financial interest in the matter.

Mr. Ronald McNeill—Can the right hon. gentleman give any information at all as to the report which has been given very authoritatively, that the Prime Minister is at variance with the French Prime Minister and the President of the United States upon the modification of the Terms of Peace in a direction favourable to Germany?

Mr. Bonar Law—I am quite sure that the hon. gentleman must realise that there is no truth in the statement. If there were any truth in it it would be the last thing for me to speak about. (Cheers.)

PRIME MINISTER'S DENIAL.

The Prime Minister's attention having been called to the question put by Mr. Ronald McNeill to the leader of the House yesterday, Mr. Lloyd George authorises the denial that he has had any communication of the nature indicated with Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and Mr. Arthur Henderson, or that any pressure by persons of political or financial influence has been brought to bear upon him to modify the Terms of Peace in a manner favourable to Germany.

TERMS UNALTERABLE.

Le Matin (Paris) says that it is probable that the Allies' reply will inform Count Brockdorff-Rantzau that the essential clauses of the Treaty are absolutely unalterable, and that it is impossible to modify a single one without being compelled to change the whole basis of the Treaty.

One of the fundamental points of the Treaty is the constitution of Poland as a strong and economically independent State. The clause on this subject was dictated not only for reasons of international equity, but because it forms an integral part of the guarantees demanded by France and her Allies.

It is impossible for the Germans to obtain any concessions regarding their Eastern frontiers, because they would automatically be followed by a modification of the clauses affecting our security on the Rhine. Only concessions of detail can be made.

VIENNA PRESS AND THE TERMS.

THE BOURSE TO CLOSE.

The Press Association's Special Correspondent at Vienna, telegraphed on June 5th:—

It says that it is a perfidious attack to men who, under the guise of [illegible] are really [illegible] of national [illegible]. As a matter of fact, also, I feel certain that the Prime Minister has not seen—though, of course, he would have a perfect right to do so if he chose—either of the gentlemen named, and to the best of my knowledge the only people whom he has consulted are the British and Overseas delegates, and a considerable number of his colleagues in the Government, who went to Paris for the express purpose of discussing the matter with him.

Mr. Bonar Law was understood to say, further, that whilst his colleagues might have political influence, he was sure that none of them had any financial interest in the matter.

Mr. Ronald McNeill—Can the right hon. gentleman give any information at all as to the report, which has been given very authoritatively, that the Prime Minister is at variance with the French Prime Minister and the President of the United States upon the modification of the Terms of Peace in a direction favourable to Germany?

Mr. Bonar Law—I am quite sure that the hon. gentleman must realise that there is no truth in the statement. If there were any truth in it it would be the last thing for me to speak about. (Cheers.)

PRIME MINISTER'S DENIAL.

The Prime Minister's attention having been called to the question put by Mr. Ronald McNeill to the leader of the House yesterday, Mr. Lloyd George authorises the denial that he has had any communication of the nature indicated with Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and Mr. Arthur Henderson, or that any pressure by persons of political or financial influence has been brought to bear upon him to modify the Terms of Peace in a manner favourable to Germany.

TERMS UNALTERABLE.

Le Matin (Paris) says that it is probable that the Allies' reply will inform Count Brockdorff-Rantzau that the essential clauses of the Treaty are absolutely unalterable, and that it is impossible to modify a single one without being compelled to change the whole basis of the Treaty.

One of the fundamental points of the Treaty is the constitution of Poland as a strong and economically independent State. The clause on this subject was dictated not only for reasons of international equity, but because it forms an integral part of the guarantees demanded by France and her Allies.

It is impossible for the Germans to obtain any concessions regarding their Eastern frontiers, because they would automatically be followed by a modification of the clauses affecting our security on the Rhine. Only concessions of detail can be made.

VIENNA PRESS AND THE TERMS.

THE BOURSE TO CLOSE.

The Press Association's Special Correspondent at Vienna, telegraphed on June 5th:—

The Neue Freie Presse is especially indignant over the clauses of the Treaty compelling Austria to grant preferential tariffs without reciprocity. It says that it is a perfidious attack by men who, under the guise of democracy are really most culpable despots and executioners of national oppression. The neutral States can, by protective tariffs, prevent our exports and flood us with imports. The Conference Powers force independence upon us, and at the same time outlaws us in the matter of economic legislation.

The Arbeiter Zeitung says that everything is taken from us which could be taken. The living flesh is torn from impotent Austria without shame, without compassion, without mercy. Nowhere is any trace of justice, no breath of sympathy for this poor, despised, and tortured country.

The Neues Wiener Journal remarks—The last word has not yet been spoken. The determination and wisdom of our delegates must not be allowed to weaken. What Austria has so far been offered—viz., death an annihilation—cannot be accepted.

In more conservative circles there is a disposition to await the handing over of the full terms of the Treaty before adopting any decisive attitude, but the newspapers generally admit that, after knowing the first section of the terms, there is no reason to expect that the remainder will be any more favourable. The Cabinet is in session nearly all day, but it is thought that the National Assembly will not be convened to discuss the terms until they are fully known.

The news from Paris has occasioned a great depression in Parliament and on the Bourse, and the members of the latter have decided to close the Exchange and suspend all financial transactions for two days as a sign of mourning.

WHAT GERMANY SHALL PAY.

A Press Association telegram from Paris yesterday says:—According to information derived from American circles, the fundamental financial principles are apparently having a great effect in influencing the movement for changes in the reparations clauses of the Treaty with Germany, which financiers of practically all the Allied countries agree are unsatisfactory. The failure to make definite the sum for reparations which Germany has to pay makes it impossible for various Powers to state to the world bankers what sums they may expect from Germany. As the plan for the international pooling of debts has failed, the individual nations must be prepared, in order to obtain loans, to make complete financial statements to the bankers. A hundred billions gold marks is the sum quite generally discussed as likely to be adopted as the total, this having been agreed upon by the Entente financial experts before the Treaty was drawn up.

LABOUR AND PEACE.

The National Labour Executive and the Parliamentary Labour Party, after a joint meeting yesterday, issued a statement declaring that the Peace Treaty is fundamentally defective in that it accepts, and is based upon, the very political principles which were the ultimate cause of the war.

AFGHAN SITUATION.

ARMISTICE SOUGHT.

The India Office announces that information received from the Governor of India, dated June 3 and 4, shows that an enemy position on the low hills two miles north-west of Thal was attacked and captured by our troops on June 2, and that General Nadir Khan, commanding Afghan forces operating round Thal, has applied for a cessation of hostilities under orders received by him from the Amir. He has been given certain periods of time in which to start withdrawing his force to Afghan territory and within which to complete it. There is no change in the situation to the north of the Kabul river or in Tirah. Some portions of the Orakzai and Zaimukt tribes have joined the Afghans, but the bulk of these two tribes have not committed themselves. There is now no enemy east of the Kurram river.

U.S. SENATE AND THE IRISH DEMAND.

A Reuter's Washington telegram of yesterday says that in the United States Senate Mr. Borah presented the resolution which was approved by the Foreign Relations Committee requesting that the American Peace Commission should secure a hearing by the Peace Conference for Mr. de Valera and other Irish representatives.

Mr. Borah asked immediate consideration of the resolution, but on the objection of Mr. Williams, Democrat, who declared the resolution was very ill-advised, the matter was shelved.

THE RHENISH REPUBLIC.

SOCIALIST PROTEST.

A Berlin message, received at Bale, says:—The Independent Socialist Party publishes in the Freiheit a warning to the working classes, to the effect that the Rhenish separatist movement is the result of intrigues of Nationalists and capitalists, who wish to escape financial burdens, and of Centrists, who wish to found a new State in which Catholic influence will be predominant. The working classes, the statement continues, protest against this high treason, and call upon the United Socialist Republic to protest against a peace of violence.

The statement concludes:—We are confident that the victorious march of the Proletariat will prove to capitalist and clerical traitors that any attempt to escape from Socialism is condemned to failure.

A Press Association Paris telegram of yesterday says:—It is understood that the Council of Four have no official view whatever with regard to the new Rhenish Republic. They are said to consider it a matter purely for settlement by the Germans.

AMERICAN POWDER TRAIN EXPLOSION.

HEAVY DEATH-ROLL.

A Reuter's Wilkesbarre (Penn.) message, dated yesterday, states:—Sixty-nine miners were killed and 40 injured this morning by an explosion of a truck of black powder attached to an electric train in which the men were being conveyed to their work. The accident occurred just after the train had entered the mouth of a tunnel. It had not got about 200 feet into the tunnel when the trolly wire broke and fell. Sparks ignited the powder, which instantly exploded, and in a moment bodies of men were flying in all directions. The flames caused even greater loss of life than the explosion, while others of the men were suffocated while trying to reach the mouth of the tunnel. The disaster followed a night of rejoicing in celebration of the home-coming of the sons and brothers of miners from service in France.

VISCOUNT FRENCH'S BOOK.

NO ACTION BY THE GOVERNMENT.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Brigadier-General Croft asked whether Lord French had published various confidential documents which he had learned of in his official capacity, including his original instruction from Lord Kitchener, and a memorandum which he addressed to the War Cabinet, and, if so, what action it was proposed to take.

Mr. Bonar Law said that he had had the articles referred to examined in the War Office. The publication of certain of these documents was unauthorised. On the other hand, had permission been sought, it was probable that it would have been accorded, as he was informed that they did not make anything public which was detrimental to the national interest. The whole subject was now in the region of public controversy, and the Government did not contemplate any special action in regard to it.

Brigadier-General Croft pointed out that proceedings were taken against the Morning Post and other journals during the war.

Mr. Bonar Law said that he could not be expected to give an expression of opinion on that subject in answer to questions. The cases, however, were different. The proceedings referred to were taken because harm was being done to the public service.

Commander Bellairs asked whether the same liberty would be accorded to junior officers as had been accorded to Lord Jellicoe and Lord French.

Mr. Bonar Law—I cannot make any statement. The position of a Field-Marshal, though nominally on active service, is different from that of any one who is really on active service.

Answering Mr. Holmes, who asked whether the report by Lord Kitchener on the supply of shrapnel and high explosive shells in September and October, 1914, could be issued as a Parliamentary Paper, Mr. Bonar Law said it would not be wise to take the action suggested. The publication by the Government of isolated documents would not be desirable.

ATHLONE CLERGYMAN AND THE MILITARY.

STRANGE APPEAL TO TOWN COUNCIL.

Our Athlone Correspondent telegraphed last night:—The Rev. Father Keane, C.C., Summerhill, Athlone, came before a special meeting of the Athlone Town Council to ask that the letting of the building to the military for balls and dances be in future refused. This, he explained, was a protest against the action of the authorities in excluding the public from the Courthouse during a political trial. The Courthouse, which was recently built, is in the control of the Council, and Father Keane said that it was galling to see the people who built the Courthouse excluded, while soldiers were passing in and out of the building preparing for a dance and for revelry, and that thing happening while Messrs. Ginnell and Sweeny were on trial for their lives—advisedly for their lives, for they were two delicate old men, well on to seventy years of age. In Athlone they had a concert for a religious purpose announced, at which Mr. Ginnell, the county member, was invited to lecture. What was the upshot? A bayonet charge was ordered on defenceless men and old women. The Council, as the City Fathers, should resent these things, and one way in which they could do so was to refuse the use of the Courthouse. He also asked that the girls and young women of Athlone should select their company, and that the young men be careful of whom they associated with in this period of spying, informing, and Castle activity.

Councillor Patrick Henry proposed that, in future, the military be refused the use of the Courthouse. He, as a councillor and ratepayer, was refused admission to the Courthouse that they built while Messrs. Ginnell and Sweeny were on trial last Tuesday. The rumour that the Courthouse windows were broken by Sinn Feiners were circulated to bring disgrace on that body.

Councillor O'Meara said that, in the interests of peace, they should pass the motion, and no longer give the Courthouse for dances to the military. They should also ask parents to keep young people off the streets at present, as there was a great deal of excitement in Athlone, and it was a very small thing that would raise a big row.

Chairman—I agree with you.

Town Clerk—The Press, I am sure, will publish that request.

Councillor J. J. Coen, J.P. (Chairman of the Westmeath County Council), said that they could not pass such a resolution, as they had an order letting the Courthouse for these dances. We are getting a grant of £1,000 a year for the military in lieu of rates.

The Chairman finally accepted a motion for consideration at the next meeting to refuse the courthouse for dancing to the military.

OBITUARY.

REV. RICHARD L. TYNER.

We regret to announce the death, which occurred on Wednesday at Lady Lane, Waterford, of the Rev. Richard Legge Tyner, Rector at Newchapel, Clonmel. Educated at Trinity College, he was ordained in the year 1891, and acted as curate of St. Patrick's, Waterford, until the year 1900, when he became Rector of Newchapel.

A Vienna telegram states—A general strike has broken out on the Danube and Hungarian Steamship Companies. All passenger and freight traffic is stopped.

DARING OUTRAGE IN DUBLIN.

SCENE AT ST. STEPHEN'S GREEN.

ARMED MEN FIRE ON THE POLICE.

A SERGEANT AND THREE CONSTABLES SHOT.

YOUNG WOMAN WOUNDED.

What was described as a "Connolly Memorial Concert," to celebrate the birthday of the late James Connolly, who was executed after the rebellion of 1916, was announced to be held last night at the Mansion House, Dublin. During the week, however, the police authorities intimated to the Lord Mayor and to the officials at Liberty Hall that the holding of the concert would not be permitted, and precautions were taken by the authorities last night to prevent the concert. A strong force of police, in charge of Superintendent Willoughby and other officers, was on duty in Dawson street in the vicinity of the Mansion House. There was no large attendance of people for the purpose of hearing the concert, the promoters having apparently given due notice to intending patrons. A crowd, however, collected in the thoroughfare in the vicinity of St. Stephen's Green, and the police proceeded to disperse this gathering without using violence.

Inspector Kelleher, with two sergeants and twenty men, was moving the crowd along the north side of St. Stephen's Green, towards the top of Grafton street, when a sensational incident occurred. Without a second's warning, three or four young men faced the police with revolvers in their hands. Two or three of them at least fired point-blank at the officers, shooting a sergeant and three constables of the A Division. Several constables grappled with the armed civilians, and one of the revolvers was captured. At this moment a number of shots rang out, and a woman fell, screaming, on the pavement near the St. Stephen's Green Club. Meanwhile the struggle between the police and civilians continued, but all the armed men succeeded in breaking away and making their escape in the crowd. It was found that Sergeant Fitzpatrick (A Division) had received a bullet wound in the shoulder. He was carried into Ashmore's pharmacy, 21 Dawson street, where he received first aid, and was then conveyed in a private motor car to St. Vincent's Hospital, where he was detained a patient. Two constables, both of whom had sustained bullet wounds in the legs, were assisted into Mr. McKee's licensed house in Dawson street, where they received first aid treatment from members of the St. John Ambulance Association, who happened at the moment to be engaged in practice at the Royal Irish Automobile Club. The woman, whose name is stated to be Maggie Hayes, aged 20 years, was carried into the St. Stephen's Green Club, where she received all possible assistance. The Corporation Ambulance was telephoned for and arrived promptly on the scene. The young woman was first conveyed to St. Vincent's Hospital, and then the two wounded constables, as well as a third who had received a bullet wound in the hand. The names of the injured were given as follows:—

Constable John O'Neill (101 A), bullet wound in the foot;

Constable John Kearns (133 A), bullet wound in the hand;

Sergeant Fitzpatrick (A Division), bullet wound in the shoulder;

Maggie Hayes, aged 20 years, of 15 St. Augustine street, bullet wound in the calf of the leg.

There was no baton charge by the police in the course of the affray, but a number of the constables drew their revolvers in compliance with orders. The majority of the crowd, which did not at any time exceed 2,000, promptly dispersed on hearing the shots, and the tramway traffic through Dawson street was not interrupted.

Detachments of the D.M.P. took up their position at the top of Grafton street and in St. Stephen's Green and Dawson street, but were not further attacked. A knot of people gathered in the thoroughfare where the pavement was spattered with blood. At 10 p.m. the tramway and pedestrian traffic was proceeding as usual. At 11 p.m. all the extra police had returned to their stations from Dawson street and St. Stephen's Green.

Colonel Edgeworth-Johnstone, Chief Commissioner of the Dublin Metropolitan Police, visited the scene of the shooting at about 10 p.m., accompanied by Colonel Bagnell, the Provost Marshal, and shortly afterwards called on the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House.

Later inquiries go to show that at the time when the shooting took place, about 8.15 p.m., the majority of the crowd were moving quietly backwards from the top of Dawson street, in response to the request of the police. Two young men suddenly produced revolvers, which they presented at the police at point-blank range. With these two men a number of others stood, but whether the entire group produced firearms is not clear. Constable Nolan grappled with one of the armed men, and in the course of the struggle he was shot, the bullet passing clean through his ankle. The constable fell to the ground, and the man escaped from his custody and ran away in the direction of Grafton street. Several shots immediately followed. A second man was seen with a revolver, also running in the direction of Grafton street, and discharging his revolver as he ran in the direction of the police. The firing does not appear to have lasted more than two minutes, and while it was proceeding the girl Hayes fell on the pavement. A gentleman who spoke from the steps of the St. Stephen's Green Club a few moments afterwards, and while the girl was inside, said that the shot had come from the police. The injured girl received surgical aid at the Club from Surgeon Tobin and another medical gentleman who happened to be there. After the shooting the evidences of the affray, in addition to bloodstains on the flagway, included two bullet holes in the doors of premises in St. Stephen's Green.

None of the promoters of the concert appear to have been on the scene when the firing took place. Shortly after six o'clock Mr. W. O'Brien and Mr. T. Johnson, of the Irish Trades Congress and Labour Party, arrived at the Mansion House, but left after an interview with Inspector McGarry, D.M.P. Others who arrived at the Mansion House included Madame Gonne McBride and her son, but none of the callers was admitted to the building. A number of ticket-holders obtained access to the grounds leading to the Supper Room, but left again. The doors, however, were locked, and the people, who did not number more than 100, had all retired from the vicinity of the Mansion House by 7.30 p.m. A lady who was selling a women's suffragist newspaper in Dawson street was not interfered with by the police. It is understood that the Connolly memorial concert was held last night at the Trades Hall, Capel street.

THE POLICE VERSION.

The police version of the particular incident of the shooting is to the effect that Sergeant Molony (12 A) and three constables of the same division were moving on a small crowd of youths who had gathered along the footway at St. Stephen's Green, near the corner of Dawson street, when one of them resented the action of the police, and immediately drew from his trousers pocket a very heavy, full loaded automatic pistol of American manufacture. One of the constables attempted to seize the weapon, and in the scuffle it fell to the ground, and was secured by the officer. Immediately that the pistol fell several shots were fired by men towards the south side of the thoroughfare, and Constables Nolan, Kearns, and O'Neill were wounded in the limbs, and Sergeant Fitzpatrick (23 A) in the shoulder, and Margaret Hayes in the leg. The persons who fired the revolvers escaped along St. Stephen's Green. Constable Downing (39 A), who caught the man who dropped the pistol, was knocked down, while Sergeant Molony, who also had hold of the man, had his grip broken, and the prisoner escaped. The police never fired a shot during the entire incident, and Sergeant Molony was unarmed.

CONDITION OF THE INJURED.

On inquiry at St. Vincent's Hospital last night it was ascertained that all the injured were making good progress, and the condition of none of them was giving any cause for alarm. Mr. Ian Macpherson, Chief Secretary for Ireland; the Permanent Under-Secretary, the Chief Commissioner of the D.M.P., and the Lord Mayor of Dublin visited the hospital and made inquiries as to the condition of the patients, who were attended to by Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Meade, Mr. Doolan, Dr. O'Hea, Dr. McGuinness, and Dr. Dargan.

INTERVIEW WITH INJURED GIRL.

Miss Margaret Hayes, the injured girl, in the course of an interview with a Press representative at St. Vincent's Hospital last night, gave her version of the shooting incident. She said that there was a crowd of police standing on the street, and there was a big, burly man outside Grandy's drapery establishment, who apparently wanted to go down the street. The crowd at the time were shouting remarks at the police who went to shove the man, and a sergeant called out "Better take that man away." The police went to arrest the man, and the crowd then pressed forward. A second later she heard revolver shots, and felt a stinging pain in the calf of her leg. She hopped along as far as the St. Stephen's Green Club, and there an American military officer met her, and her wound was dressed in the club. Asked if she could say who fired the shot, she replied that she did not know.

AN ARREST.

A young man named Patrick Murray, of 9 Montague Court, off Camden street, was taken into custody in College street at about 11 o'clock last night, when the police were returning from the Mansion House. He was detained at Brunswick street Station, but no charge was preferred against him last night.

STARTLING OUTRAGE IN CLARE.

TWO MEN SHOT.

Our Ennis Correspondent, telegraphing last night, says:—A shooting outrage is reported from the Tulla district, where, on Wednesday morning, two men named Michael Corbett and Thomas Powell were fired at and wounded. Corbett, it is stated, was seriously injured. At the time they were going to a local bog for the purpose of drawing turf, and the report states that they met a person on the road, evidently a man in female attire, who discharged a revolver at close range, hitting both men. The assailant then made away. The wounded men returned to their homes, and medical aid was summoned.

The outrage is attributed to a dispute over the local school. The teacher had recently resigned through ill-health, and his son was appointed in his place. The young man had been in the Army for a time, having been called up for military service while in England, where he was teaching. A section of the people in the parish favoured the appointment of another teacher, and the parents of a number of the children received letters cautioning them against sending them to the school. Both Corbett and Powell, it is alleged, received these warnings, but disregarded them.

No arrests have yet been made. County Inspector Gelston to-day visited the scene, and both the police and the military have been very active in the district.

PROCLAIMED SINN FEIN MEETING AT BRAY.

DISTRICT INSPECTOR ASSAULTED.

Much excitement was caused in Bray yesterday evening by an attempt to hold a Sinn Fein meeting which the authorities had proclaimed. It was proposed to hold a concert in Arcadia, Bray, in aid of the Irish Republican Prisoners' Dependents' Fund, and Father Michael O'Flanagan was announced to speak at it. By order of Brigadier-General Brind, the meeting was prohibited. Fifty additional Constabulary from the Depot, in Phoenix Park, were drafted into Bray, and were posted outside the hall, under the command of District-Inspector Moloney and Head Constable Mulligan, shortly before 7 o'clock. Large crowds soon assembled, and the arrival of Father O'Flanagan in a motor car was the signal for a great outburst of cheering. The car was surrounded by the crowd. The District Inspector approached Father O'Flanagan, and when about to address him was struck on the ear by a member of the crowd. Much excitement prevailed, and reinforcements were ordered on the scene. Their arrival was greeted with loud boohing and hissing. A consultation was held between Father O'Flanagan, Mr. James E. Lynch, Secretary of the East Wicklow Sinn Fein Executive, and Mr. James Hoy, after which Father O'Flanagan rose in the car to address the assemblage.

District Inspector Moloney (addressing Father O'Flanagan)—I will not allow any public meeting to be held here.

Father O'Flanagan—I just want to tell the people——

District Inspector Moloney—The best thing to do is to tell them to disperse. They have heard what I have said, and you had better add your weight to mine.

Father O'Flanagan—If I tell them anything you cannot listen to, then you can interfere.

Proceeding, he said that he understood that this was the first time a proclaimed meeting had been held in Bray; and when people found themselves in surroundings to which they were not accustomed, things might happen that would not be satisfactory. They saw before them a body of trained, silent men, who did not hiss or groan, but who waited for the order of the one man to tell them what to do. The people should learn a lesson from those silent and disciplined men, and also place themselves under one leader. (Cheers.) These men were Irishmen just the same as the people—(cries of "No," and groans)—and when they found themselves lined up, perhaps in danger of bloodshed between them, the people might learn from it a better lesson than had they been allowed to listen to speeches and songs. The day would come, please God, in Ireland when the national spirit would become so strong that a situation such as the present one could not arise. (Loud cheers.)

Father O'Flanagan then drove up Quinsborough road, followed by a large portion of the crowd. Some of the police remained on guard outside the hall, while the others, numbering about forty, went after the crowd. A movement was made outside the Royal Hotel, the police drawing a cordon across the street, prohibiting the people from following the motor car further. Much excitement prevailed, and the police drew batons. A conflict seemed inevitable, when Mr. Joseph Campbell, a well known member of Sinn Fein, addressing the crowd, advised them to disperse quietly. This advice was quickly accepted, and a short time afterwards the streets resumed their normal appearance.

MILITARY ACTIVITY IN COUNTY LOUTH.

MANY HOUSES SEARCHED FOR ARMS.

TRAVELLER SHOT BY SENTRY.

Our Dundalk Correspondent telegraphed as follows last night:—A large force of military and police took possession of the streets of Dundalk and of the roads adjacent to the town from midnight on Wednesday until 4 o'clock this morning. They placed sentries at all exits from the town and at the road junctions, and stopped and interrogated all wayfarers.

A young commercial traveller named Murphy, when returning from a journey in County Down for his firm, Messrs. Carroll, tobacco manufacturers, was challenged two miles north of Dundalk. The driver of the motor car claimed that he did not hear the challenge, and, as he failed to pull up, a soldier fired a shot which wounded Mr. Murphy in the thigh. He was conveyed to the County Infirmary, where he is reported to be very weak from loss of blood. He is not yet out of danger.

Military motor cyclists were abroad in large numbers during the night, and motor lorries passed over the leading roads north of the town. It is stated that the houses of a number of prominent Sinn Feiners were searched, but so far as can be ascertained no arrests were made. It is, however, rumoured, though confirmation is lacking, that the arms raided some time ago from Lord Arran's and other houses in the Ravensdale district have been recovered as the result of a thorough search of the countryside in the Adavoyle district of South Armagh.

SCENE IN A COURTHOUSE.

SEVEN DEFENDANTS ESCAPE.

At a Crimes Court held at Thomastown, before Mr. J. Ryan, R.M., and Mr. Murray Hornibrook, R.M., seven members of the Thomastown Sinn Fein Club were charged with holding a collection in aid of the Dail Eireann Fund without permits.

Dr. Lewis J. Watters, C.S., prosecuted.

The defendants on entering the court ascended the witness table, and, on being requested by Mr. Ryan, R.M., to remove their hats, stated that they refused to recognise the Court.

The police removed their hats.

When Dr. Watters proceeded to open the case the crowd in the courthouse began to cheer, with the result that nothing could be heard above the din except cries of "Up, Sinn Fein," and "Up, the rebels."

Mr. Ryan beckoned to District Inspector Whyte to clear the court. While this was being done the defendants snatched their hats from the police and proceeded to leave the court. Some of the police endeavoured to prevent them from leaving, but the defendants brushed the police aside and left the building.

Dr. Watters called on District Inspector Whyte to arrest the defendants, but the latter replied that he had no authority to do so, as no warrants had been issued for their arrest.

The defendants subsequently returned to court, and one of them said that he would give an undertaking that the crowd would remain quiet if allowed to remain.

A member of the crowd here shouted: "We will remain quiet for you, but not for the magistrate or the police."

Mr. Ryan again requested the police not to permit anybody to remain in the court except those on business, whereupon the defendants again left the court and did not return.

Dr. Watters applied to have warrants issued for the arrest of the seven defendants, and the application was granted.

During the day no attempt was made by the police to arrest any of the defendants.

At Farnham yesterday the Duke of Westminster was fined £1 for driving a motor car without side lights.

PARLIAMENT.

THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA BILL.

PROGRESSIVE CONCESSIONS

MR. MONTAGU'S MESSAGE TO INDIA.

TRAINING THE ELECTORATE.

5,000,000 MEN TO BE ENFRANCHISED.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. Montagu moved the second reading of the Government of India Bill. He said that when he took office two years ago much work leading up to the preparation of a bill of this kind had already been done. After two years of prolonged discussion and deliberation, he asked for the second reading of a bill which had been as carefully prepared and considered in all its aspects as was possible for a measure of this kind. There was so much general agreement on all sides as to the provisions of the bill, and there were such important points of difference as to methods, that it was essential that the details of the measure should be examined by a Parliamentary Committee. It was intended that the bill should be referred to a Joint Committee of both Houses. It was the Government's wish that the Committee should discuss the matter, not only from the point of view of detailed examination, but also from the point of view of alternative methods, although he believed that we dare not, and ought not to, do less than was proposed in the bill. The Government would be glad to take the advice of the Committee on any alternative method which accomplished at least as much. He hoped that no one would act on the Committee unless he was prepared to act constructively, and not destructively. (Cheers.) India awaited with legitimate impatience a start of the policy initiated two years ago. There was no more fallacious platitude or obvious fallacy than that which was on the lips of so many critics of Indian affairs—that India was a country which never changed and underwent none of the emotions of other countries. The war, the causes and objects of the war, and the speeches of those who conducted the political aspects of the war had their effect from one end of India to the other, and they even reached the Government of Madras. (Laughter.) The pronouncement of 20th August, 1917, promised that as soon as possible substantial steps in the direction of responsible government should be taken. There was no use for pronouncements that were not fulfilled. Doubts were already beginning to appear in India. Unnecessary delay would be fatal to our purpose. He had published two White Papers, one of which showed the actual effect of the clauses of the bill. It was said that they relied too much in the form of the bill, upon rules and regulations, and that the bill was only a skeleton. The bill did not intend to give a constitution that was to endure; it was transitional. It was a bridge between government by the agents of Parliament and government by representatives of the people of India. These rules and regulations would be submitted to both Houses of Parliament.

"PROGRESSIVE REALISATION."

Discussing the particular provisions of the bill, he said that they aimed at the progressive realisation of responsible government, but the stages must, at the outset, be substantial. We had promised India the progressive realisation of responsible government. We had given to it representation, like that of the Dominions, at our Imperial Conference, and India was to be an original member of the League of Nations. Therefore, whatever difficulties there might be in the path, our Imperial task was to overcome them, and help India along the path of nationality. An important question had been to decide what the unit of government should be for the purposes of the bill. The province was the unit adopted. The province was already, partly owing to Lord Morley's policy, the unit of patriotism in India, but there were difficulties in the way. Education had not been spread widely. A few people were very highly educated, and a very large proportion not educated at all. There were also great differences of race and religion, and difficulties arising out of the harsh customs and precepts of caste. But there was no better way of getting over these difficulties than by representative institutions. The essence of the problem was to train the electorate. Proposals had been made to put five million voters on the register. In order to train them, they must give the electorate power through their representatives, and develop the sense of responsibility. He pointed out that it was proposed to separate the functions of government. They would transfer some and reserve others, and proceed gradually to transfer those which were at present reserved. Provision was made for the review of the operation of the new system from time to time. Coincidentally with this development of local government, it was intended that the central Government should be made more representative and more elastic.

THE INDO-BRITISH ASSOCIATION SCHEME.

He came next to the scheme of the Indo-British Association—a body which got very angry when he suggested that they did not intend to carry out the pronouncement of 20th August in any adequate way, and that they had done great harm in India by leading the people to suppose that they had more influence on the decisions of Parliament than he hoped they would ever have. Their scheme was the scheme of bureaucrats for the consumption of bureaucrats, and intended for the enthronement of bureaucrats. Under it, the Lord Sydenhams of the future were to remain on their thrones, untrammelled by control from above, undismayed by criticism from below. Was that a progressive realisation of responsible government?

General Page Croft—Was not Lord Sydenham a successful Governor?

Mr. Montagu said that he expressed no opinion on that point. He was only concerned to test a programme, and when he found the Association putting forward a policy which, in pretending to carry out the pronouncement, re-enthroned the bureaucrats, he was entitled to criticise it with all his power. If the House had any desire to carry out the pledges made to India, they had far better carry the bill as it stood. They would never get on with all the work they had to do in India until they had settled, as the bill would settle, the Constitutional question, and the interminable discussion of it. He hoped that they would receive from the Joint Committee an agreed bill which would launch India upon the road to complete self-government. There was so much other work to do in India. They could give their attention to the spread of education and the development of her great resources and industries; they could consider the reorganisation of her defences. But before they could do anything, and in order to make these things possible, it was essential to start her on the road of self-government. He implored the House to show to India that Parliament was responsive to the appeal for self-government. There was too much race prejudice in India, and it was beyond the House to correct it. But Parliament could help to correct it. If they held on to power in India, and stood fast for the policy of subordination and restriction, it would continue. But if we surrendered our trusteeship to the great provinces of India as speedily as they were ready to take it over, then India would have something better and more worthy of doing than impotently criticising the present Administration. He could not believe that Parliament would offer any serious opposition. They had recently been very sympathetic to the national aspirations of the Arabs, the Czecho-Slovaks, and others. Here was a country desirous of achieving nationality. Let the House pass the bill, and start it under the ægis of the British flag on the road which we ourselves had travelled. Despite all the acknowledged difficulties, if they passed the bill they could say to the people of India that the future was with them, and they would find in Parliament every desire to help them if they devoted themselves to use with wisdom, with self-restraint, and with respect for minorities, the great opportunities which Parliament entrusted to them. That was the message they should send to India. It could not be sent unless the House was determined to pass without delay, and with every desire to improve it, a Statute which meant the beginning of responsible self-government in the Indian Empire. (Cheers.)

SIR DONALD MACLEAN.

Sir Donald MacLean said that the House had listened to a speech which was worthy of the theme. It raised the whole question, not only of the future of the British Empire, but of the East and its relation to the West. On the decision to which Parliament would come ultimately regarding this measure would turn the fate of Europe in its relation to the vast nations which populated the East. It was no new thing they were attempting. It was a step, and a very safe step, safeguarded in all sorts of directions, that the country might take with confidence, notwithstanding the disturbed condition of some portions of India. Time was of the essence of the usefulness of the step. He hoped that such alterations as were made in the bill would be made in no limiting sense, but rather on lines which betokened trust, rather than distrust, of our fellow-citizens under the Imperial Crown. Of course, we must always seek to maintain India as an integral part of the British Empire. So far as he could judge, the ambition of responsible men in India was that the country should be a self-governing Dominion within the British Empire. That was an ambition which could be facilitated by passing such a measure as this.

SIR HENRY CRAIK.

Sir Henry Craik maintained that, having regard to past experience, they must regard with caution and a critical eye the mechanism of these proposals. But, while he saw the dangers, distrusted very strongly recent experiments and had doubts as to the practicability of some of the proposals, he cordially agreed that some quick settlement was desirable.

Mr. Bennett, in supporting the bill, said that he considered that the political concessions made in the bill were honest and genuine, and the executive safeguards were sufficient.

Colonel Yate said that the bill was one nobody understood or had had time to study. He welcomed the Committee that was to be appointed, and hoped that it would be representative of all parties.

Colonel Wedgwood said he thought that this was the most important bill that had been introduced since the Reform Bill of 1832. It marked the birth of India as one of the self-governing Dominions of the Empire. The bill, however, would not end agitation in India. He thought that we might have been more courageous, and have started India further ahead in the stream of time.

MR. HERBERT FISHER.

Mr. Herbert Fisher said that he thought his right hon. friend might be satisfied with the debate. From all sides there had come a measure of agreement that it was no longer possible for the Government of India to adopt a perfectly negative, non possumus attitude towards the great intellectual movements which were sweeping the country from end to end. When he was in India on the Public Services Commission he was told that the students of the colleges talked nothing else but politics. The old image of India, silent, stationary, undisturbed by politics, if it was ever true, had long ceased to correspond with the realities of the situation. Ought they to be sorry or ashamed, ought they to attribute this growth of the political spirit to mismanagement on their part? He did not share Sir Henry Craik's view that Indian education had been mismanaged. He thought that if Englishmen had rendered themselves responsible for the conduct of the government of India, they were bound in honour to give the Indians all that was best in our civilisation. It was greatly to our credit that we had succeeded, through our system of education in India, in bringing about those aspirations, those hopes and those sentiments which English statesmen had now seriously to reckon with. This great measure, so far from being in any way revolutionary, was the natural consequence of our system of education. There was no foundation for any suggestion that the Secretary of State wanted to rush the bill through before Parliament had had time to consider it properly. There was nothing in the bill that was not in the Chelmsford-Montagu report, which members had had ample time to digest. Although he confessed that he was rather sceptical at first, the more he studied the bill and the alternative schemes, the more he came to the conclusion that the plan of the bill was the only possible solution. Its effects would be felt for generations and generations to come. It opened a new era for India. For that reason it was necessary that it should be accompanied, in the interests of the Indians themselves, by safeguards which would enable the experiment to be tried with the prospect of the greatest amount of success. If they failed to pass the bill now they might miss an opportunity such as might never recur. They must also see that the bill was not whittled away in any serious particulars; otherwise they would be confronted with a grave situation in India.

The bill was read a second time, and committed to a Joint Select Committee of Lords and Commons.

The House adjourned at midnight.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

WINNIPEG SOLDIERS AND BOLSHEVISM.

RESOLVED TO STAMP IT OUT.

Reuter's Winnipeg Correspondent, telegraphing on Thursday, says:—Over 4,000 Winnipeg war veterans, including scores of officers and hundreds of trade unionists, after standing at attention in the Auditorium this afternoon while they sang "God Save the King," pledged themselves by all means in their power to maintain law and order in Winnipeg, and to stamp out Bolshevism and anarchy. Resolutions were passed demanding that the authorities should immediately arrest and punish those who had attempted to overthrow the Constitutional Government, and advocating the deportation of all undesirables and aliens.

IRISH QUESTIONS.

POSITION OF IRISH PORTS.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Sir A. Shirley Benn asked the Chief Secretary for Ireland what steps, if any, the Government has taken to carry out the recommendations regarding the improvement of Irish ports contained in the report of the Select Committee on Transport which sat last year.

Mr. Denis Henry—This is a matter which, it is presumed, will be taken into early consideration by the Ministry of Ways and Communications, when formed.

CORK SHELL FACTORY.

Sir Henry Dalziel asked the Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Munitions whether the Cork National Shell Factory, for which the Dunlop Rubber Company, Ltd., tendered the sum of £4,500, has been sold; and, if so, to whom, and at what price; whether he is aware that the Dunlop Rubber Company, Ltd., who were informed that their tender was the highest received, were subsequently compelled to withdraw their offer, owing to the unusual methods of the department concerned, and the prolonged delay in accepting or refusing their tender; whether the attention of the Minister of Munitions has been drawn to the letter written by the Dunlop Rubber Company, Ltd., on the 14th April, 1919, to the Ministry of Munitions, and the reply on 16th April, 1919, of Mr. F. Lyall, on behalf of the Director of Area Organisation; and whether he can offer any explanation of the procedure that has been followed in this case.

Mr. Kellaway—The sale of this factory is not concluded, and until negotiations are completed I am unable to answer the first part of the question. There was no obligation upon the Ministry to accept any tender, and the present negotiations were not commenced until the Dunlop Company withdrew their offer.

Replying to a further question, Mr. Kellaway added that there had been nothing improper in connection with the decision in regard to the tender. What was done was to procure the highest possible price for public property.

Sir Henry Dalziel said that he would take an opportunity of calling attention to the matter.

THE NATIONAL TEACHERS' BONUS.

Mr. Chamberlain, replying to Mr. T. W. Brown, who asked whether the bonus granted to National School teachers in Ireland, which was not regarded as part of their salary in estimating the rate of pension, was to be taken into account in assessing income tax, said that the answer was in the affirmative.

The recommendation of the Horse Show Committee—that a sum not exceeding £1,900 be allocated in prizes at the coming Horse Show, fixed for August 26th and three following days—was approved.

On the recommendation of the Committee of Agriculture, Mr. Walter J. Walsh was appointed to fill the vacancy on the Horse Show Committee.

Read letter from the Private Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant, intimating that His Excellency proposes to visit the Agricultural Show at Ballsbridge on Wednesday next, June 11th, at 3 p.m.

A scheme for the utilisation of the minerals bequeathed to the Society by the late Lord Farnham for educational purposes was referred to the Science Committee for consideration and report.

Letters were read from Messrs. Whitney, Moore and Keller; James J. Kelly; J. C. Conolly, Sir John Purser Griffith, and Mr. Edgar Anderson, and other business was transacted.

DISPLAY OF FLOWERS AT BALLSBRIDGE.

The Royal Horticultural Society of Ireland are co-operating with the Royal Dublin Society in arranging a Flower Show, which promises to be one of the great attractive features of the forthcoming Agricultural Show, June 10th to 13th. During the past five years the cultivation of flowers has been much neglected on account of the necessity for growing food, but now that the war is ended a return to that side of the garden will be welcomed, and visitors may look forward to a very charming display, staged by the best nurserymen and amateurs.

NATIONALIST ACTIVITY IN CARLOW.

During the past fortnight there has been considerable activity in the County Carlow among the local branches of the United Irish League.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

URGENT NEED FOR FUNDS.

THE EXCLUSION OF POLITICS.

The delegates to the fifteenth Congress of the Irish Technical Instruction Association reassembled yesterday morning at the Royal College of Science, Dublin, for the purpose of discussing some of the phases of technical education in Ireland. Sir Bertram Windle, K.S.G., President of the Association, occupied the chair.

MR. T. P. GILL.

Mr. T. P. Gill, Secretary to the Department of Agriculture and Technical Education, said that the cause of technical education in Ireland was at a crisis in its history. It had a great opportunity now, and if it took the right step it would go forward, and all would be right. The right step was simply to provide the going concern of our system of technical education in Ireland, which is organised to a point of high and proved efficiency, with more funds—and to do it now—to maintain and extend its work in face of new needs and new opportunities. (Hear, hear.) Let only the funds be provided, and the system would do the rest. The situation could not remain stationary. If it did, the country would go back. More money must be invested in it year by year. Other countries had proved that money spent on technical and agricultural education was a reproductive investment directly returning increased wealth. A vigorous popular interest was taken by the people of this country in technical education. The Department had been obliged to practice repression in handling their available funds since the war began. He quoted the cases of Belfast, Cork, and other towns to show how work had been handicapped by lack of funds, and how in some places the county committees had to dispense with their itinerant instructors and to reduce the number of teachers in several classes. In all that he said he was not blaming the Treasury. It was easy and popular to blame the Treasury, but it should be remembered that the Treasury was the watch-dog of the taxpayer, defending him against a multitude of claimants on his purse. If we had an Irish Treasury here in Dublin it would have to do exactly the same thing, and would become just as unpopular. Previous to the war, taking the rough with the smooth, the Department had always received good and helpful consideration from the Treasury when the case was presented with adequate care. In this matter a good deal depended on what was done in and from Ireland itself.

THE TILLAGE CAMPAIGN.

The cause of Irish technical education had to meet a difficult state of things, and the first of all conditions of success was to have it clearly understood and supported by the public who were interested in it—that was the public represented by this Congress. The tillage campaign of the past two and a half years, and its success in increasing food supplies at a serious crisis, was a good example of the value of the education which the Department had for many years been giving in agriculture. That industrial development had brought about an immediate and fruitful demand for the work of technical education. So it could be seen that when industrial enterprise took in hand the opportunity that was presented the system of technical education, if it were provided with the necessary means, would prove what a precious asset it was to the country. Much had been said about co-ordination of educational matters. He desired to emphasise the fact that for technical education the chief and essential co-ordination which was required was with the industrial, agricultural, and economic life generally of the country. It would take the most vigilant care to see that this co-ordination was secured in conjunction with the new opportunities that were arising. One great factor which belonged to them in the field of technical education, which they had sedulously nourished and maintained, was the co-operation with the people through people, through their committees, this Congress and other bodies, and the unity and harmony that had been kept in being throughout that period. (Hear, hear.) It was a great thing to say that that had been maintained undisturbed for so long a period as twenty years, and was in effective action to-day. (Applause.)

A BREEZE.

The President, in offering the thanks of Congress to Mr. Gill for his address, said that stress had very properly been laid upon the fact that they were at a crisis in the affairs of technical education in this country. There are, and there would be, great chances for prosperity in this country, which could be only partially made use of by a community imperfectly educated, and educated particularly from the technical point of view. In the Province of Munster, and especially in the City of Cork, there were quite remarkable opportunities presented for the practical application of technical knowledge, and yet the Technical Education Committee were in the unfortunate position that they could not discharge their duty towards the rising generation for want of funds. He suggested that the Committees would, at least, do no worse if they were each smaller in number.

Mr. E. T. Keane, Kilkenny, said that Mr. Gill at the close of his address had referred to the unity and harmony that existed in all ranks under the Department. That, he thought, was a proper spirit, and any departure from it should be deprecated. There was, in contradiction of that spirit, an instance which arose in the City of Limerick, where a certain course of action had been taken with the view of victimising the gentleman who had been elected principal of the School of Commerce in that city. He thought that this governing body having control of technical education in Ireland should steer scrupulously clear of everything that was in the nature of political proscription. He suggested that a most outrageous effort at political proscription had been made against the gentleman to whom he had alluded, and that this Congress ought to reprobate that. It was a singular thing that a Department which had as its Vice-President a gentleman who was, he might say, a contingent rebel, and who was ready and willing to take part in a rebellion in Ireland——

The President—Order, order. I am not going to have political discussions in this room. (Applause.)

Mr. Keane said that he rose to call attention to a matter that he considered to be of importance.

The President—Sit down, and hold your tongue while I am speaking. (Cries of "Chair.")

Mr. Keane—Pardon me; I was only going to say——

The President—Sit down. I am not going to have any disorder in this place. Any kind of legitimate criticism of the Department we will be prepared to hear, but we will have no politics. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Keane (who was still standing)—I am not going to entertain politics.

The President—But you have done so.

Mr. Keane—I am standing up for fair play and justice. I object to Mr. Hugh Barrie, one of Carson's rebels, occupying the position of Vice-President of the Department. (Cries of "Order.")

The incident closed.

Mr. G. M. Legge, Carrickfergus, said that it was always a pleasure to listen to Mr. Gill's addresses at these Congresses, because of their practical character and the information which they conveyed.

GENERAL MEETING OF THE ASSOCIATION.

The Congress then became a general meeting of the Technical Instruction Association.

On the motion of the Rev. M. J. Hughes, P.P., seconded by Mr. Sherman Crawford, votes of condolence and sympathy with the relatives of the late Captain Forth (Belfast), Alderman O'Sullivan (Waterford), and Mr. Arthur Williamson (Rathmines), who were prominent and useful members of the Association, were passed.

STANDING COUNCIL'S REPORT.

Mr. Thos. J. Hayes, Hon. Secretary, submitted the report of the Standing Council, which, it stated, had continued in close touch with Technical Instruction Committees in every part of Ireland. The report also testified to the Council's appreciation of the kindness and sympathy with which the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction received the recommendations and suggestions made to them from time to time by the Council. The resolutions passed by the last Congress were subsequently [illegible] by the various bodies represented.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The Council sent a deputation to the Chief Secretary (Mr. Duke), and the case for more money was laid before him. The Standing Council took advantage of every opportunity that presented itself to urge on the Government the pressing nature of their claims, and on the 25th April last another deputation waited on the present Chief Secretary, and explained to him the difficulties of their position. Mr. Macpherson listened to the deputation with attention, and expressed his sympathy, but up to the present his promised co-operation had not brought about any practical result. Those who had devoted their time and attention to this great movement for the past twenty years knew that schemes in every part of the country were being hampered and retarded by the failure of the Government to provide the several committees with sufficient funds for carrying on the educational work entrusted to them. The Council observed with feelings akin to indignation that while additional subsidies had been given during the past two years for primary and intermediate education no increased financial assistance whatever had been given for purposes of technical education in this country.

Alderman Mercier, Belfast, moved the adoption of the report, and suggested that some of the money which was being distributed to the unemployed might with advantage be diverted to technical instruction. (Hear, hear.) He mentioned the case of a farm labourer who had been paid 25s. a week. That man left his employer, and was paid 29s. a week for doing nothing. Surely some of the funds might be diverted to the underpaid teachers. (Hear, hear.)

Rev. Canon Langan, P.P., seconded. He said that all their schemes of education were sorely hampered for want of funds. Every local effort in England was helped by the Government; in Ireland they were left to starve.

Mr. Fogarty, Galway, said that it was lamentable that in a case where all were united their demand should be refused by the Government. The time was coming when, if they were longer ignored, the teachers might have recourse to the methods of the miners and the railwaymen.

The report was adopted.

Mr. E. J. Long, Hon. Treasurer, submitted a financial statement, which was also approved and adopted.

SCHOLARSHIPS AT TRADE SCHOOLS.

Mr. Sharman Crawford, Cork, proposed the following resolution:—

That this Congress strongly urges the Department to extend without delay the system of apprentice scholarships. The scheme should provide scholarships for boys who intend to enter a trade, and who should attend for two years at a trades preparatory school. Where possible, the boys should be apprenticed to a trade before entering the trades preparatory school, and the two years should be counted towards the period of apprenticeship. The scheme should exclude the payment of premiums and should require the payment of a reasonable scale of wages by the employer. The scholarships should carry a payment in aid of maintenance during the two school years, and a contribution during the two years following, attendance (for eight hours weekly) at a technical school being required during the whole period of apprenticeship. This attendance should preferably be in special day classes. Further, that this Congress wish to impress on both the employers and employes the urgent necessity of securing that all apprentices shall attend technical classes, and that recognition should be given to such attendance; and that attendance at full courses shall count for reduction of years of apprenticeship. It is also desirable that they should declare that the premium system should be abolished. And that this resolution be sent to the Trades Congress and to all employers' federations and trade organisations.

Alderman Mercier seconded the motion.

Mr. Fogarty said that what the motion asked for had been in operation for ten years.

Mr. George Fletcher said that the Department had a system of scholarships in successful operation—a system under which boys were taken from the primary school and sent for two years to a trade preparatory school, and from that apprenticed to a trade, the two years being allowed in the term of apprenticeship. On the authority of employers, he was able to say that that system had had extremely good results. It would be a pity if the scope of these scholarships were limited in any way.

Mr. P. T. Daly, Dublin, said that there was not the slightest ground for fear that in the promotion of the scheme outlined in the resolution any opposition would come from the Labour Party.

Mr. John Good, Dublin, referred to a report which had been drawn up by a Conference representative of employers and employed and technical teachers in 1917 on the subject of technical education and facilities for apprentices. It was proposed to give apprentices £15 12s. for the first year and £20 16s. for the second. In the third year they would be self-supporting, and if a boy spent two years at the school the intention was that that period should be taken into account in his apprenticeship. It was important that both the trade and the employer should keep in touch with the boy during the period he was at the school. Although this report was unanimously drawn up two years ago, nothing was since done for want of funds.

Mr. A. Taylor, Belfast, suggested that conferences of employers and employed ought to be called, so that they might have an opportunity of discussing the scheme.

The resolution was passed.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT.

On the motion of Mr. T. J. Hayes, seconded by the Rev. Canon Cummins, the following resolution was passed:—

That this Congress, representing Technical Instruction Committees in every part of Ireland, demands that technical education in this country should immediately receive that financial support, for lack of which its operations have had to be curtailed in face of increasing demands and important new opportunities.

The President, the Hon. Treasurer, and the Hon. Secretary were re-elected for the ensuing year.

It was decided that next year's Congress should be held at Larne.

The meeting adjourned till 10 o'clock this morning.

The afternoon was devoted to visiting Guinness's Brewery, the Albert Farm, Glasnevin; Jacob's biscuit factory, Trinity College Library, the National Gallery, the National Museum, and the Botanic Gardens. In the evening the delegates attended a conversazione at the Royal College of Science.

CONVERSAZIONE AND DANCE.

A conversazione to welcome the members of the Irish Technical Congress was held in the College of Science last evening, when there was a large gathering present. Mr. Clarke-Barry's orchestra discoursed some delightful operatic and other selections, which added considerably to the enjoyment of the evening. The visitors, who were received by the Dean (Professor H. H. Jeffcott), Mrs. Jeffcott, and the President of the Students' Union (Mr. D. Dowling), visited the various exhibits in the different laboratories. Refreshments were served in the Mathematical Lecture Room. Subsequently a dance was held, which proved an enjoyable function, in which many of the visitors participated.

GENERAL POST OFFICE, SACKVILLE STREET.

WORK OF CLEARING THE SITE COMMENCED.

It looks as if the work of re-building the old General Post Office in Sackville street, Dublin, is to be taken in hands without further delay. During the past couple of days parties of labourers, estimated at about 100, and stated to be discharged Service men, have been at work within the walls of the burned-out building, clearing away the débris, and generally preparing the ground for the arrival of the tradesmen and builders' hands, who later will come on the scene to begin re-building operations.

DUBLIN PORT BOARD.

THE OVERSEAS TRADE.

THE BURDEN OF FREIGHTS.

The weekly meeting of the Dublin Port and Docks Board was held yesterday. Mr. John Hollwey, Chairman, presided. There were also present:—

The Lord Mayor, Richard K. Gamble, J.P., Vice-Chairman; Sir James M. Gallagher, Alderman Alfred Byrne, Alderman James Moran, J.P.; P. T. Daly, Thomas R. McCullagh, William Wallace, J.P.; Marcus Goodbody, J.P.; Edward Lee, J.P.; Laurence W. Martin, George Byrne, J.P.; James W. Hill, J.P.; David Barry, W. H. Litchfield, S. S. M'Cormick, J.P.; Walter Baird, and William Hewat.

The Secretary submitted a letter he had received from the Dublin Port and Docks Board Officers' Association, which had just been formed, asking for the favour of the use of a room in the offices in which to hold meetings.

The Chairman proposed to grant the favour asked for, when

Mr. Daly dissented, and said that the scavengers had to pay rent for their meeting-room.

The request was granted, whereupon Mr. Daly said that the Board had now established a principle, and that he would hand in a notice of motion.

Mr. George Byrne—And what is to become of Liberty Hall? (Laughter.)

The Engineer submitted reports in regard to the proposed promenade at Clontarf. The Cleansing Committee of the Corporation also wrote on the same subject asking for a conference.

It was decided to meet a sub-committee of the Corporation on the matter.

CRANES WANTED.

The Harbour Master wrote enclosing a letter from Captain Clarke, Naval Transport Officer, complaining of the want of cranes at the port, and stating that six more cranes were required. The Harbour Master stated that from January last they had experienced a large increase in overseas shipping. Since 1914 the Board's electric cranes had been constantly in use, day and night, but that it was impossible, with the cranage available, to give the required despatch in the discharge of vessels. They required four additional cranes on the North Wall and two at the Alexandra Wharf.

The Chairman said that he had learned that there were two Government cranes to be disposed of at Glasgow which would be suitable for Dublin. He had discovered the official in London who seemed to have the disposal of the cranes in his power, and he asked £5,000 for them. He (the Chairman) declined that offer, and said that the Board would purchase the two cranes at £2,500. That offer was refused. There had been much delay in clearing Government vessels, and if the cranes had been given to the Board at £2,500, the saving of the time of the Government ships would have paid for the original cost of the cranes twice over. But it was impossible to deal with this Government official.

Mr. Wallace complained of the delay in clearing cargoes owing to want of wagons.

The Chairman said that it would be impossible to supply wagons as fast as vessels could be discharged.

The Harbour Master, in reply to the Chairman, said that they had any amount of wagons that morning, but they had not cranes for the boats, as well as for the stuff on the quays that had to be handled by cranes.

The Chairman said that Mr. Burgess, the Coal Controller, had been doing his best with the Government to obtain the two Glasgow cranes for Dublin, and he suggested that the communications now before the Board should be sent to him.

The Chairman's suggestion was adopted.

RAILWAY AND SHIPPING RATES.

Alderman Byrne moved:—

That we hereby request the responsible authorities to hold a sworn inquiry into the exorbitant freights now being demanded by shipping and railway companies for delivery of goods to merchants and traders in the City of Dublin.

Mr. Wallace seconded the resolution.

Mr. Baird pointed out that the cost of handling traffic that the shipping companies had now to meet had enormously increased. He admitted that the rates were high, but they were not too high considering the existing state of affairs. The steamship companies were hard put to it to make a living out of the traffic. They could not pay high rates of labour, increased taxation to that Board and to the Corporation, and increases for everything, unless they put those increases on the public. There was no other way out of it. The companies would like to see some way to reduce the rates, but he could see no prospect of that. If the matter came to be investigated, Alderman Byrne might be astonished at hearing the amount of the increases that had to be met. He had told them nothing of the increases of which he complained, but he (Mr. Baird) might inform Alderman Byrne that the increased railway rates represented only 4 per cent. The loss on the working of the railways was over £100,000,000 a year. So far as the steamship companies on each side of the Channel were concerned, they had now to bear an enormous increase in the cost of working, and had the utmost difficulty in carrying on.

The Chairman asked Alderman Byrne to whom he intended his resolution to be sent.

Alderman Byrne said the Government authorities.

Mr. Gamble opposed the resolution for the reasons stated by Mr. Baird. Alderman Byrne had, he thought, treated the Board with scant courtesy by simply reading his resolution and giving no grounds for it.

Mr. Hewat thought that something must be done to stabilise cost of working and other expenses.

On a vote the resolution was defeated, only Alderman Byrne and Mr. Daly voting in its favour.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

ELECTION OF NEW PROFESSOR.

CLERICAL INCOMES.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland resumed its deliberations yesterday in the Church House, Belfast—the Moderator (Right Rev. Dr. Simms, C.B., C.M.G.), presiding.

Rev. Samuel Lindsay moved the adoption of the report of the Augmentation Fund Committee. He said they had improved their position financially as compared with the previous year by something like £780. They had given help to 219 ministers to bring their income up to £183 10s. 4d. yearly. Such remuneration was out of all keeping with the present demands.

Rev. D. Dowling (Armagh), who seconded, said that it was a shame that a man during the first two years of his ministry should be asked to live on £180 a year, pay £70 for his Widows' Fund, and furnish his house.

Rev. Dr. M'Mordie explained in detail the proposed Thanksgiving Fund of £30,000 to increase smaller ministerial incomes, to which up till the present, he said, the sum of £8,045 had been subscribed. (Applause.)

Rev. Dr. M'Dermott proposed the following resolution:—"That the Assembly offers its unfeigned thanks to Dr. M'Mordie for his efforts to raise an Emergency Fund in order to increase the incomes of the more poorly paid ministers of the Church. Further, the Assembly is gratified by the great liberality shown by many of our people and the success already attained, and heartily commends the fund to the sympathy and support of the Church."

Mr. William Hogg seconded the motion.

The report and the resolution were then adopted.

APPOINTMENT OF PROFESSOR.

The Assembly proceeded to the election of a Professor of Systematic Theology in the Assembly's College, Belfast, in room of the late Rev. Professor Hamill.

Rev. William Colquhoun proposed, and Rev. W. K. Hanna seconded, the appointment of Rev. James Haire, B.D., Malone.

Rev. Dr. M'Dermott moved, and Rev. A. H. Dill seconded the appointment of Rev. Robert Thomas Marshall, M.A., Maghera. A vote was taken, with the following result:—

Haire	452
Marshall	250

The Moderator declared Mr. Haire elected, amid loud applause.

The newly-elected professor having signed the formula, thanked the Assembly for the honour they had conferred upon him.

SALARIES OF PROFESSORS.

Rev. J. B. Armour said that the professors in Magee College, Derry, and the Assembly's College, Belfast, were scandalously underpaid. He supposed that £400 a year, with a house, was about the highest salary, and at the present value of money that was only equivalent to about £200 on the pre-war basis. He proposed that a Committee be appointed to raise an Augmentation Fund for the professors of both Colleges.

Mr. Robert Brown seconded, and the resolution was passed.

ST. JUDE'S PARISH, HULL.

The Rev. Arthur L. Leeper, M.A., T.C.D., formerly curate in charge of Brockholes, near Huddersfield, and recently a chaplain to the Forces, has been presented to the living of St. Jude's Parish, Hull, by the Archbishop of York, [illegible] gift the parish lies.

KINGSTOWN OFFICIALS' HOLIDAYS.

At Kingstown Urban Council yesterday, Mr. J. J. Kennedy, J.P., Chairman, moved, and Mr. O'Brien seconded, that the officials and employés of the Council be granted Whitsuntide holidays from Friday to Wednesday. An amendment proposed by Mr. Robinson, and seconded by Mr. Kelly, that the officials, etc., be granted only Monday as holiday was carried by five votes to three.

Cyclists Warned.—In fining a number of cyclists for breaches of the Lighting-Up Order at Kingstown Court yesterday, Mr. Swifte, K.C., said he regarded the offence as a more serious one than in the case of unlighted horse-drawn vehicles, and it was his practice to impose heavier fines. He was glad to find the Kingstown police were active in these prosecutions.

THE COAL COMMISSION.

POSITION OF IRON AND STEEL TRADE.

MENACE OF GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

The Coal Commission resumed its sittings at Westminster yesterday, Mr. Justice Sankey presiding.

Evidence was first given by Viscount Devonport, Chairman of the Port of London Authority, who gave details concerning the acquisition of the London dock undertakings. The compensation payable to the debenture and stockholders of the dock undertakings, he said, was arrived at by agreement with the respective companies. The offer on behalf of the Government was based upon the average annual net revenue covering six years, which it was assumed would be maintainable under existing conditions.

Witness was asked by the Chairman whether he had any views as to the capacity of Government Departments for running an industry.

In reply, Lord Devonport said that when he was Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, from 1905 to 1909, the Department did not appear to him to have quite the attributes of a first-class commercial organisation. The defects were lack of training and experience of business handling and control.

Mr. Walter Leaf, Chairman of the Committee of London Clearing Bankers, expressed the view that any confiscation of the coal interest without fair compensation would be a shock to public confidence which would paralyse all industrial enterprise. There was at the moment an almost unlimited demand for coal abroad, he pointed out, and it was, therefore, the article of commerce to which they must mainly look at the moment to restore the foreign exchange to parity. Until this was done manufacturers must be at a great disadvantage wherever they had to import their raw material. As to the question of purchase of the industry, any issue of Exchequer Bonds in payment must be regarded as wholly out of the question.

Sir Hugh Bell, on behalf of the National Federation of Iron and Steel Manufacturers, viewed with grave apprehension the growing tendency to replace the action of economic law by Governmental interference. The Department which during the war had successfully procured production at any cost would undoubtedly not have similar success if called upon to produce at competitive market prices. In the special case of the coal mines there were weighty reasons why the suggested nationalisation would be against the best interest of the commercial progress of the country. It was not to be believed that the mere fact of nationalisation would make the coal miners of Great Britain into a contented body of men, completely satisfied with the distribution of the products of their industry. As to the iron and steel trade, Sir Hugh declared that the development of the steel works during the war meant that the trade would make a much greater call on our coal resources than in the past. The iron ore mines abroad, which provided the material for nearly 40 per cent. of ore production, had been seriously affected in raising and transporting minerals by the shortage and high price of British coal. Unless we could secure imports of iron ore in quantities exceeding pre-war deliveries, there was not the smallest prospect of our being able to produce sufficient pig iron to supply the full capacity of our greatly enlarged steel plates. The iron and steel trade had another special interest in the question of nationalisation, arising from the fact that many of the large iron and steel works had acquired collieries for the special purpose of their business.

Sir Leo Money—Is it not a fact that in three years, with the aid of Government stimulation and bounties, steel production was increased by 50 per cent.?

Witness—It remains to be seen whether we were wise.

Answering a question, witness suggested the negative policy of leaving things alone. He thought the interference proposed would make things worse.

Mr. Smillie asked whether it was not the miner who kept the owner and paid his taxes.

Witness—No; I keep him.

Mr. Smillie asked whether landlords allowed people to get coal on their own conditions.

Witness—Yes.

Mr. Smillie—Have you any objection to the workmen using their powers?

Witness—None.

Mr. Smillie—Did you read the evidence of the duke who said he was prepared to fight to the very last?

Witness—In defending his rights.

Mr. Smillie—Have you any objection to workmen using their powers? "None," replied witness. Were I a workman the one thing I would not give up on any ground whatever is the right to strike. As an employer of men, one thing I will not give up under any condition, unless Parliament compels me, is the right to discharge my men. I demand that right.

Mr. Smillie—And we deny your right to discharge your men unless for just cause.

Witness—I hope I will not discharge them for any other.

Sir Lionel Phillips, Chairman of the Central Mining and Investment Corporation, said he did not believe the State would secure as high an output or as low a cost for coal as private enterprise. The nationalisation of one industry should, as a natural consequence, be followed by the nationalisation of all industries, and the results would be appalling mismanagement, muddle, political wire-pulling, corruption, and the consequent ruin of the people.

Mr. Milne Watson, President of the National Gas Council, and Mr. Broadberry, Manager of the Tottenham Gas Undertaking, also opposed nationalisation.

The Commission adjourned until to-day.

Her fourth son, Walter, served as wireless telegraphist on the coast patrol ships.

PORTADOWN SHOW.

There were many features at Portadown Show yesterday, and not the least was the dimensions of the attendance, which in the later afternoon surpassed all records. Another feature was the reappearance of a dog show in connection with the fixture, a section which has been absent from it since 1916. And a right good dog show it was, a distinct improvement upon many of its predecessors; and, indeed, everything considered, Portadown Show was a satisfactory affair this season. The day, too, lent itself to the occasion, it being very fine, but without oppressive heat. Quite a fair lot of horses were in competition in the horse section. A Dublin exhibitor, Mr. J. Percy Lawlor, won in agricultural stallions with Lancelot, while the Moore Challenge Cup for the best horse suitable for general purposes, and confined to County Armagh, was awarded to Mr. J. R. Jones' Clydesdale mare, Lady Fortune II., and the Harbinson Challenge Cup to Mr. W. Weir's Maggie, both the latter and Lady Fortune II. being good winners in their respective classes. A good winner in four-year-olds and upwards was Mr. B. Laverty's Achuna, a winner also at Belfast and Dungannon. Amongst other successful exhibitors in the horse section were Messrs. H. L. Chambers, J. M. Macrory, M. Fredlander, L. Aston, H. Porter, A. E. Bebe, J. Warwick, R. Cregan, F. W. Wiley, W. J. McIntire, and Miss A. Forde, all of whom had firsts to their credit.

A nice collection of shorthorns competed in the cattle section, Sir James Stronge, Mr. J. Moore, and Mr. T. Hegan winning in the bull classes, and Messrs. F. and T. Maclean and Messrs. Parke in those for the other sex. Successful exhibitors in other breeds were Messrs. R. Weatherall, T. M. Wallace, in Jerseys and Guernseys; Messrs. Maclean and Mr. E. Cowby, in British Friesians. Mr. T. Hegan carried off the Laurelvale Cup, and Messrs. Maclean the Broomcourt Cup for the best shorthorn bull and cow respectively; while the cup for the best three-year-old heifer, shown by a local farmer, was won by Mr. J. Hoy, and the similar trophy for one or two-year-olds by Mr. C. Reid. Mr. W. F. Uprichard and Mr. W. Porter were the principal winners in sheep, and Mr. C. P. Hamilton in swine.

Dogs made quite an imposing show, Irish terriers being first-class, the next best breed in exhibition being Airedales. Mr. J. A. Carbery scored strongly in Irish setters with Eamon of Boyne, and Mr. Hitchcock and Mrs. Forde in bulldogs. The winning in collies was chiefly done by Messrs. H. Gault and J. Jackson, and in Irish terriers by Messrs. R. McKinstry, H. McCroskery, and A. R. Anderson. In smooth fox terriers Messrs. R. Saunders and J. Goff Pim scored firsts, while in the rough variety Messrs. J. Wilson did most of the winning. Messrs. A. J. Connolly and T. Keys won in Airedales, and Lady Dunleath in cocker spaniels. Amongst the winning exhibitors in the toy classes were:—Captain R. A. V. Hamilton, Miss M. Halpenny, Mrs. McKinstry, Miss Hazleton, etc. There was a big programme of driving and jumping competitions, Mr. D. G. McKee winning the confined farmers' driving class, while the pony class was headed by Mr. F. J. Hall, Mr. J. Warwick getting second and Miss Price third. In the jumping competition for horses that have never won a prize value £10 Mr. D Johnston's Biddy was first, Mrs. Coyle's Daybreak being second, and Mr. J. Laverty's Disturbance third.

GOLF.

IRISH LADIES' CHAMPIONSHIP.

MISS JACKSON RETAINS THE TITLE.

Playing to the sixth hole yesterday forenoon in her semi-final match in the Irish Ladies' Championship at Portmarnock, the holder, Miss Janet Jackson, was leading Mrs. McIntyre by 5 holes. She sliced her tee shot, and lost the hole, and the contretemps almost led to her losing the championship as well. Obviously the occurrence had an unsettling effect on her subsequent play. Her opponent was quick to take full advantage of her opportunity, and, playing good golf, she won the 6th and 7th. From that on it was a hard-fought match, and Mrs. McIntyre, having recovered from the effects of her early reverses, and reproducing some of her old-time form, played so well for the remainder of the match that instead of sustaining the heavy defeat that seemed inevitable she almost overcame the champion. At the turn Miss Jackson led by 3 up, being out in 37, but although outdistanced from the tenth tee Mrs. McIntyre succeeded in halving the hole. She got another back at the 11th, Miss Jackson failing with a short putt for a half in 5. To the 12th Miss Jackson's tee shot lay near the steps in the bunker, and she lost this hole also, Mrs. McIntyre thus reducing her arrears to 1 down. Bunkered off her 3rd going to the 13th, Miss Jackson pitched right into the hazard in front, and took 5 to get on, and Mrs. McIntyre, getting down a very long putt, squared for the first time. The champion was decidedly lucky to snatch a half in 4 at the 14th, where, following a beautiful second, Mrs. McIntyre lipped the hole for 3. Another half in 5 at the 15th followed, but Miss Jackson got in front again at the 16th, being pin high in her third, while her opponent was in a couple of bunkers. To the 17th Miss Jackson pitched short of the pot bunkers, the ball bouncing to the extreme edge of the hazard on the right of the green. Mrs. McIntyre played a beautiful straight shot dead on the pin, and richly deserved the hole, which she won in 3-4, to again square the match. The 18th hole was won by Miss Jackson in 5-6, Mrs. McIntyre being in the rough on the left from the tee, and although she recovered well she failed to negotiate a three-quarter stymie, and so lost a finely-contested match—the best, indeed, of the day.

Miss M. C. Alexander had an easy victory over Miss N. Armstrong. The latter, who was making her début in an open competition, is on a 6 handicap at Rosslare, and obviously the occasion proved too much for this inexperienced, but most promising, young golfer. She played her wooden clubs and irons beautifully, and with the accuracy of a finished golfer, but nervousness on the greens, surrounded, as the players were, by a big "gallery," led to her undoing. Miss Alexander, on the other hand, played a powerful game, and although guilty of a few lapses here and there, she was out in 40, and stood 2 up at the turn, albeit Miss Armstrong made her opponent a present of the 2nd and 9th holes. On the outward journey Miss Armstrong started well by winning the 10th in 5-6, but the strain told, and Miss Alexander, winning the 11th, 12th, 13th, and 14th in 4, 4, 7, 4, entered the final by a 5 and 4 victory.

THE FINAL.

An exceptionally large company followed Miss Jackson and Miss Alexander in the evening. Miss Jackson made an auspicious start, a fine drive being supplemented by a perfectly played iron shot. Miss Alexander also played the hole faultlessly, and was down in 4, but Miss Jackson holed her first putt for 3. Miss Alexander's approach shot to the second was badly executed, and punished, but she recovered well, only to miss a holeable putt for 4, and her opponent being down in 4, became 2 up. The third was halved in 5, Miss Alexander being confronted with a half stymie. The Northern lady had a bad lie off her tee shot to the 4th, the ball rolling back off the bank; but she secured a division in 5. Miss Jackson played a grand iron second shot dead on the pin at 5th, her opponent being to the right with the odd, and the hole went to Miss Jackson in 3. Miss Alexander also lost the 6th in 6-5, taking 4 to reach the green, and the champion drew further ahead at the next, which she won in 3-4, getting home a long putt after pitching past the pin from the bunker on the right. The eighth was halved in 5, and Miss Jackson, with a fine drive and a magnificent iron shot, was on the 9th green to win the hole in 4-5, and turn 6 up, Miss Alexander having pushed out her iron after getting a capital tee shot. Both duffed their mashie shots to the 10th, Miss Jackson's landing at the foot of the bank, while her opponent found the bunker on the far side of it. Miss Alexander was over the green in the left-hand bunker with her third, and losing the hole in 5-6, she became 7 down. Miss Alexander won her first hole at the eleventh in 4-6, the other being bunkered off her third shot, and she followed up her success by taking the next two, the 13th in 3 to 4, while Miss Jackson, after experiencing a lot of trouble on the way to the 13th, picked up. Miss Jackson, however, was in too strong a position, and, winning the 14th in 3-5, she retained the championship by a brilliant 5 and 4 victory.

The collapse of Miss Alexander—for such it was—came as a great surprise to all, and evidently she must have been suffering from stage-fright. She was not driving with her accustomed power (she had been hitting tee shots during the week averaging 250 yards in length), and her iron play was not of the finished type, while her mashie shots at times were anything but skilfully executed. Miss Jackson, on the other hand, played grand golf from the tee and through the green. She hit some wonderfully fine long low cleek and iron shots, and while she excelled with her irons, her short game was also excellent. Details:—

Miss M. C. Alexander (Fortwilliam) beat Miss N. Armstrong (Rosslare), 5 and 4.

Miss J. Jackson (Island) beat Mrs. McIntyre (Sutton), 1 up.

FINAL.

Miss Jackson beat Miss Alexander, 5 and 4.

PROFESSIONAL TOURNAMENT AT GLASGOW.

The Killermont Tournament, the first general professional event since the war, was opened yesterday at the Glasgow Club's course, Bearsden. The day provided two first-class surprises in the defeat of Vardon and Mitchell, while a minor sensation was the overthrow of Laurence Ayton, a professional who has been greatly fancied for championship honours, and whose exclusion from the forthcoming tournament at St. Andrews has caused so much dissatisfaction amongst the St. Andrews people. The surprises of the afternoon were the overthrow of White and Herd by young Ayton and the Irish champion, O'Hare.

A Licensing Prosecution.—Before Mr. Lupton, in the Northern Police Court, Dublin, yesterday, Thomas Doyle, 6 Denmark street Little, was charged by Inspector Crosbie, D.M.P., with harbouring on his licensed premises at 12.45 a.m. on the 14th April, Police Constable John J. Dooley, 164 C, who was then on duty and in uniform, and with supplying him with intoxicating liquor; and with having allowed Edward J. Payne, 82 Haddington road, and Stanislaus Butler, 2 St. Joseph's terrace, Philipsburgh avenue, to be on his licensed premises at the same time. Dooley, Payne, and Byrne were summoned for being on the premises during prohibited hours. Inspector Crosbie stated that he found the men on the premises, and Doyle told him that while he was posting a letter he met Payne, whom he invited in for a drink. Butler and the constable were also allowed in. Butler said he had paid for drinks, but Payne and the constable denied that anyone had paid for them. Mr. Doyle was fined £3, Mr. Butler £1 10/-, and Mr. Payne and Constable Dooley 10/- each. Mr. O'Flaherty (of the Chief Crown Solicitor's Office) prosecuted, and Mr. E. H. Burne defended.

A DRAW.

As was to be expected, with the wicket wearing well, the game at Leyton ended yesterday, the match being abandoned as a draw. Going in against Essex's total of 354, Yorkshire lost 4 wickets for 66, but afterwards matters steadily improved with them, and, staying in for five and a half hours, the Northern County made 348. Hirst played a great game for his side. Batting with restraint before lunch, and afterwards hitting freely, he was in for three and a quarter hours without giving a chance. Score:—

On a wicket that aided them, Barratt and W. Flint brought this match at Derby yesterday to an abrupt termination, the visitors winning at 235 by an innings and 49 runs. Overnight they gained the lead on the first innings of 24, and their five outstanding batsmen subsequently added 89 in an hour and a quarter. George Gunn, whose stay extended over two hours and fifty minutes, gave no further trouble, but a stand by Oates and Richmond for the ninth wicket yielded 60 in thirty-five minutes. OXFORD UNIVERSITY v. MR. WARNER'S ELEVEN.

BLUES' UNENTERPRISING BATTING.

Mr. Warner took a very good side to Oxford on Thursday, and it was a bit unfortunate that the University were not quite at full strength. The latter batted first under delightful conditions, but very few of the batsmen added to their reputations, there being generally an entire lack of enterprise. Woldorf played sound, but defensive, cricket. He was batting two hours and a half without giving a chance—altogether, an excellent performance. Score:

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY v. FREE FORESTERS.

BRIGHT BATTING BY G. WOOD.

Considerable progress was made in this match yesterday, as, after disposing of the Free Foresters for a very poor total, the Light Blues established a commanding lead of 230 runs, with one wicket still to fall. Play started in sensational fashion, as six Foresters' wickets went down for only seven runs. G. E. G. Wood played a fine innings for Cambridge, making 128 in two hours and 20 minutes, and hitting a six and 17 fours. It was a display of clean hitting, devoid of any chance. Score:—

M.C.C. v. AUSTRALIANS.

SLOW SCORING.

The Australians continued their tour at Lord's yesterday against a moderate Marylebone side, while the Colonials themselves substituted Winning and Trennery for Kellaway and Pellew, the latter pair being on the injured list. There was nothing at all the matter with the pitch, and yet the batsmen failed to score freely, throughout the proceedings reasonably steady bowling being treated with profound respect. Going in first, M.C.C. registered 133 in 2 hours and 40 minutes, and the highest stand during an indifferent performance was that between Mead and Hearne, who added 51 runs for the third wicket in three-quarters of an hour. Kennedy, who hit Gregory, the fast bowler, over the square leg boundary for six, showed best form among the remainder. Lampard took five wickets cheaply with his slows, and subsequently the Australians started well with only one man out at tea time for 67 runs. The excellent progress was not maintained until after the fall of the sixth wicket at 117, when Bull and Trennery adopted such enterprising methods that the visitors are now 44 runs ahead. About 1,000 people attended, in delightful weather. Score:—

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

No Bands at Kingstown.—The Kingstown Urban Council yesterday received an offer of a band of 20 performers to play on the East Pier from Mr. S. Levenston, Lower George's street, Kingstown, who was prepared to supply and personally conduct the band for a fee of £10 10s. The Chairman, Mr. J. J. Kennedy, J.P., said the Amusements Committee was non est. Sir Thomas Robinson said it was an awful pity something was not done to provide band entertainments. The offer was declined.

Kingstown and Child Welfare.—Mrs. Fegan-Redmond and Mrs. M'Carthy were yesterday appointed by the Kingstown Urban Council delegates to the Infant Welfare Conference in London next month. Mrs. Fegan-Redmond, in thanking the Council, said it was a most important matter. Children were becoming infected with a form of dysentery which soldiers had contracted at the front. At the conference they would hear discussions that would be a most valuable education.

Kingstown Workmen and Sick Pay.—Councillor M. F. O'Brien, at the Kingstown Council meeting yesterday, moved that the rates of pay to permanent employes on the working staff during illness shall be full pay for the first four weeks, half pay for twenty-six weeks, and quarter pay for the following twenty-two weeks. Sir Thomas Robinson objected on a point of order, and said the Chairman's ruling on it would save a deal of fruitless discussion. Mr. O'Brien said his motion was merely to give their employés the same privileges as enjoyed by the workingmen both in the Corporation and mercantile concerns. If it was out of order all he desired was that it be referred back to some committee to make it legal. The Chairman ruled the motion out of order, and said no committee could make it legal.

A Transatlantic Whiskey Cargo.—Despite the fact that a very big consignment of Canadian whiskey has reached the Liffey on board the Ulster Steamship Company's Head Line steamer Carrigan Head, the spirits are not intended for Dublin. Inquiries at the Custom House docks and at the offices of Messrs. Palgrave, Murphy, and Co., the Dublin agents of the Head Line of steamers, showed that the cargo consisted of some 1,500 barrels of rye whiskey or "spirit," and that they were intended only for trans-shipment at the Liffey, their destination being Glasgow, and their purpose presumably for blending operations. The consignment will in due course be placed on board a chartered steamer and sent from the Liffey to the Clyde.

MARRIAGE OF LIEUTENANT SUMMERS AND MISS GRESWOLDE-WILLIAMS.

An interesting marriage took place at the Chapel Royal, Savoy, London, yesterday afternoon, when Miss Abbie Dorothy Christian Greswolde-Williams, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Greswolde-Williams, of Bredenbury Court, Brotya road, Worcester, and Knightwick Escarpment, British East Africa, was married to Lieutenant Noel Summers, 9th Lancers, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Summers, of Marlay Grange, Rathfarnham, Co. Dublin, and 8 Cadogan place, London. The Rev. Hugh Chapman officiated at the Marriage Service. The boys of the Chapel Royal provided the singing, and the service was fully choral. Mr. Henry Greswolde-Williams gave his niece away, and she wore a lovely gown of white accordion pleated chiffon, trimmed with silver Brussels lace. Her tulle veil was arranged over orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids. Master David Stewart, cousin of the bride, acted as train bearer. There were also three bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Summers, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Honor Hamilton, and Miss Irene Hart. The "best man" was Captain G. Lawrence, of the Coldstream Guards.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSED STRONG.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, THURSDAY.

Stocks opened strong, with buying orders numerous, particularly for Industrials on prospective large earnings, including Oils, Motors, Coppers, Shippings, and Steels. The receipt of 5½ million dollars more gold from Canada helped the sentiment. The advances ranged from 3 to 5 points among Industrials. There was also a broad inquiry for Rails, especially for Pacific Roads. Reactions in spots were recorded early in the afternoon, but failed to affect the general trend of the market, some specialities being up 3 to 7 points. Victory Loan 4¾ per cent.'s reached a very high level at 100.20. Studebaker Common made a gain of 7 and General Electric 15 points. The closing was strong.

LARD—Cash strong. Prime Western, 32½ and Middle West 30 points higher.

COFFEE opened steady, 3 to 8 points higher, and advanced for a while owing to favourable Brazilian market advices and on European and Wall street houses and trade interests buying. A reaction set in later, prices declining under liquidation and selling by commission houses and New Orleans interests. The market closed easy, 4 to 7 points down. Spot steady and unchanged.

SUGAR—Spot steady.

COTTON opened steady, 20 to 6 points higher. Early advances, due to firm cable advices and trade buying, were followed by declines, owing to the official weather reports being considered favourable, Southern selling, and bulls unloading. The declining movement was helped by the uncovering of stop-loss orders and selling by New Orleans and foreign interests. There were rallies subsequently, however, due to reports of excessive rains in the Eastern belt, bullish private crop accounts, covering of shorts, and renewed trade buying. The market closed steady, but 28 to 44 points down. Spot quiet at 35 points fall. New Orleans spot 25 points lower. Receipts—Atlantic, 10,000; Gulf, 11,000. Exports—Britain, 27,000; Continent, nil.

CORN opened irregular, ½c. up to ½c. down, July rising on prediction of decreased receipts, and other months declining on more favourable weather. The decline spread all round under favourable crop reports, outsiders holding off, and selling by commission houses; then the market partially rallied on small country offerings, shorts covering, and in sympathy with lard, but again eased through the apathy of cash traders and realising, closing irregular and unchanged to ½c. down. Receipts—Western, 919,000; last year, 941,000; this season, 203,172,000; last season, 227,348,000. July, 170¾; September, 160¾; December, 142¾.

COMRADES OF THE GREAT WAR.

ALLEGED BOGUS COLLECTOR AT BRAY.

At a special court in Bray yesterday, before Mr. Wm. Sullivan, R.M., David Charles Laurence Dodds, alias John Macpherson, alleged to be a demobilised soldier and a native of Belfast, was again put forward on a charge of having obtained by fraud and false pretences £3 16/10 in connection with the Comrades of the Great War Society. Evidence of having paid the defendant subscriptions was given by Rev. R. F. Colohan, P.P.; Canon Digin, Colonel Acton, Mr. J. M. Henry, Mrs. Mally, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Day, and Miss Barnewall.

Thomas Arthur Lidstone, Secretary of the Comrades of the Great War, Dublin, denied certain statements of the defendant. Miss May Fitzharmon, clerk in the Dublin offices of the Comrades, 4 Merrion row, said the defendant had called there on May 15th and stated that he was an organising secretary from York, and was going to the South of Ireland on a holiday, and wanted to make hay while the sun was shining. He said the people in Dublin knew very little about the Comrades, and they were not working the thing properly. He got leaflets and other information at the office.

Mr. Desmond H. M'Donagh, who subscribed 2s., stated that Dodds had told him they were going to take the Hibernian Hall, and were going to have a big splash in Bray. Joseph Bishop said the defendant told him the District Inspector had subscribed £5 and that he valued Bray at £1,000.

The District Inspector denied giving a subscription, and at his request Dodds was remanded till Tuesday.

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

Business was quietly conducted on 'Change yesterday with, however, a further addition to supporting orders in certain directions. The Funds were harder, but India Stock was less firm. There were a few irregular changes in the Bank group. Guinness Ord. shares further improved, but remained on offer at 39, the quoted figure. City Steam Pref. materialised portion of yesterday's improved nominal closing price. The Ord. Stock was uncertain, and did not change hands. The feature in Marconi shares was the rise of 5s. to 107s. 6d. in the Pref. shares. Other issues presented no point of interest, and the Ord. shares stood firm at 119s. 4½d. Rather more orders were put through the Home Railway market, but the changes in prices were infinitesimal. Dunlop issues were hard, with Rubbers up again to 145s. Textiles marked time. The record earnings, etc., disclosed by the E. and J. Burke dividend statement ought to have given the market a pleasant surprise, but no dealing took place. Tobacco and Oil shares advanced, and closed good.

In the Funds, Consols rose 1/16 to 54 7/16, and War Loan 5 p.c. 1/16 to 94¼, while India 3½ p.c. fell ¼ to 67½. Belfast City and District Water 3½ p.c. fell ½ to 74½, but Dublin Corporation Stock was still scarce and bid up to 72¼ x.d.

Banks varied a little. Hibernians rose 1/16 to 3⅜, and Munster and Leinsters ⅛ to 9⅜, while National fell ¼ to 21½ for a few shares.

Breweries and Distilleries were firm. Guinness Ord. rose ⅛ to 39, and John Jameson and Son Debs. 1/16 to 7 1/16, while Guinness Pref. repeated 11½. Dublin Distillers issues were rather bid for.

In Steam Stocks, City of Dublin Pref. show a rise of 2 at 91, but this price compares with 89 to 95, yesterday's nominal closing quotation.

Among Marconis, the Ord. repeated 119s. 4½d., but the Pref. rose 5s. to 107s. 6d. Canadians fell 3d. to 26s. 3d., and Marconi Marines 7½d. to [illegible]

Home Rails were rather more under notice. Wicklow rose ¼ to 14¼, but Great Northern fell ¼ to 84½ and Midland Great Western 5 p.c. Pref. ¼ to 75½, others show no change.

Tramways remain quiet, and without change or feature.

Among Dunlops, Dunlop Rubber Ord. rose 1s. to 145s., and Parent Tyre Def. 1½d. to 69s. 7½d., while the Pref., at 16s. 1½d., were unchanged.

In Drapery Shares, McBirneys repeated 90s., and Walpole Bros. Pref. 80s.

As regards Manufacturing Shares, Calicos fell 3d. to 17s. 3d., but Coats repeated 8½, and Cottons 84s. Gouldings closed round about 8¼, the previous price. Vickers rose 9d. to 37s.

In Trading, etc., Shares, Bagots Hutton Ord. rose ½ to 3½. Irish Times 2nd Pref. repeated 17s. Imperial Tobacco Shares rose 3s. further to 90s. 6d., and Canadians 3d. to 26s. 1½d. Mexican Eagle Oils 3s. 9d. to 136s. 3d., and Shell Transports 11-32 to 9¼.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed April 5th, 1917) .... 5 p.c.

There was no alteration in the Bank rate. Loan money was plentiful, and quoted at 2¾ to 3 per cent. overnight. Weekly loans remained at 3 to [illegible] per cent. Rather contrary to expectation, discount rates were not lowered in preparation for the forthcoming loan operation. The Discount market was quiet, and takers showed more caution in the [illegible] that the suspension of Treasury Bills would [illegible] be long in operation. The general quotation for three months' paper was 3½ to 3⅝ per cent., and for six months' drafts 3½ to 3⅝ per cent. There was again little doing in short-dated Treasury bills, which hardly offered.

LONDON STOCKS QUIET.

The Stock Exchange remained quiet, and the attendance was again below the average, many members being absent at Epsom. Markets as a whole moved with quiet irregularity, but there were several cheerful features to note among specialities, Oils again being active, with some show of strength, while Shipping and South African Mining descriptions were also spottily good. The appearance of the gilt-edged market was irregular on adjustments.

Changes:—Rise—3½ p.c. War Loan, ⅛ to 88⅜. Falls—Consols, ¼ to 54¼; 5 p.c. War Loan, 1/16 to 94 3/16; 4 p.c. do., ¼ to 101¼; 3 p.c. Irish Land Act, ¼ to 61; 2¾ p.c. do., ¼ to 56, India 3 p.c., ¼ to 58½; do. 3½ p.c., ¼ to 67½.

ALLIED BONDS DULL.—The Foreign market was lacking in vigour. French Loans were depressed, chiefly by the peace terms delay and the continued weakness of the Paris exchange. The Fives fell ¼ to 79½, while the Fours were only 64½. Russians were supported at previous levels, and there was also some enquiry for Far Eastern descriptions. South Americans remained slow, with dulness in Peruvians and Mexicans.

RAILS NEGLECTED.—Home Rails were a neglected and uninteresting market throughout, and Tractions sagged here and there from sheer inertia. Among Trunk and Trade Stock there was not much net change. North-Westerns held around 93. Great Westerns were firm, but Great Northern Def. offered back to 36. As regards Passenger issues, Undergrounds were on the firm side, though there was insufficient support to actually carry quotations forward. Great Easterns were weak, falling ⅛ to 35½. Scotch descriptions were about the same.

Canadian Pacifics met fair attention and support around 175, and the Grand Trunk group enjoyed a steadier tone owing to the better Winnipeg news. The traffic for the concluding period of May shows a gross gain of £48,963. Mexican Rails were heavy in tone, revolutionary reports still being a disturbing factor. There were some further scattered declines of ⅛ to ½ among Argentine Rails. San Paulos among Brazilian Rails rallied ½ to 171½.

Changes:—Rise—Underground Income Bonds, ½ to 56½. Falls—Great Eastern, ⅛ to 35½; Great Northern Def., ¼ to 36; Antofagasta Pref.-Ord., ½ to 91; Bahia Blanca Stock, 1 to 65; B.A. Great Southern, ⅛ to 88.

INDUSTRIALS CHEERFUL.—Miscellaneous and Industrial securities were cheerful, and several specialities showed to advantage. There was another jump of 4/- to 91/- in Imperial Tobacco, with very active trading to record on the bonus expectations indulged by the market. British American Tobacco was unchanged. P. and O. Def., among Shipping, further soared to 465, and Royal Mails were up 1 to 156. In the Land group, Nigeria spurted 1/16 to 3⅛, and Hudson's Bays further rallied ¼ to 8½. Sudans remained rather under 7. Engineering issues were unsteady. Pease and Partners shed ¼ at 16¼, and Cammell Lairds dropped to 6⅞. The Marconi group showed to better advantage, the Ord. rising ⅛ to 6⅛, while the Pref. at 5⅜ was ⅛ better. The market was awaiting the arbitration award. The Marine Shares at 3⅛ were hardly so good. Aerateds, in the Catering and Supply section, were bid up another 1/16 to 3⅜. Egyptian markets were unchanged at 25/-, on the 5 per cent. dividend. Insurance Shares remained spottily good.

Changes:—Rises—Marconi, ⅛ to 6⅛; do. Pref., ⅛ to 5⅜; Aerated Bread, 1/16 to 3⅜; B.S.A., 1/16 to 1 5/16; Imperial Tobacco, 4/- to 91/-; John Brown, 3/- to 33/6; P. and O. Def., 5 to 465; Royal Mail, 1 to 156; Hudson's Bay, ¼ to 8½; Nigers, ⅛ to 3⅛. Falls—Marconi Marine, 1/16 to 3⅛; Cammell Laird, ⅛ to 6⅞; Pease and Partners, ¼ to 16¼; Anglo-Argentine Trams Pref., ⅛ to 3¼.

MINING MARKET FAIRLY GOOD.—Business among Mines was restricted, but the general news not unfavourable. The South African groups showed to better advantage. Kaffirs had some lead from New York, and were also helped by the declaration of an increased Central Mining dividend. Rhodesians were harder, while Diamonds tended forward after their overnight set-back. Interest in Siberians showed signs of widening again, though activity and strength was again confined to the lower priced shares, and Russo-Asiatics hung fire. There was not much doing in the American section, though Colombian Mining tended forward moderately during the latter part of the day. Kaffirs and Fanti Consols were good spots among West Africans. Copper was rather firmer, but tin fell 25/- per ton.

RUBBER MARKET STEADY.—The price of rubber was a little lower at 1/10 per lb. There were no exciting events in the Share market during the past week, and business has kept within somewhat narrow limits. Now that most of the restrictions upon new capital issues have been removed it is difficult to keep count of the various companies which are offering new shares for subscription. In nearly every case the new capital is offered upon terms which constitute a bonus to existing shareholders, but owing to the rather slow and cumbersome process which still has to be gone through before permission can be obtained from the Stock Exchange Committee for dealings in the new issues, it is for the most part impossible to negotiate renunciation letters within the time limits fixed by the different companies. This naturally causes inconvenience and injustice to shareholders. Amongst the new issues recently announced may be mentioned Anglo-Johore (one share in six at 1/- premium), Batu Kawan (one in five, at 5/- premium), Bila Sumatra (38 for 10 at par), Eastern Sumatra (42 for 100 at 6d. premium), Insulinde (one in seven at 2/- premium), Java Amal. (one in twelve at 10/- premium), Kasintoe (one in eleven at par). Anglo-Dutch are about 1/16 lower on the week at 49/6, and Java Investment have eased a few pence to 40/3. Small losses are also shown by Linggi, and Rubber Trust at 34/9, but Bah Lias are a little higher on balance at 46/9, and Batu Caves have improved to 13⅛. Moody Valley are firm, with buyers just under 50/-, and Straits Plantations have shown strength around 40s. Amongst Borneos, Galang Besar are decidedly weak, with a drop to 1/8½, but Bukit Tambun continue to display considerable activity around 2/10. Eastern Sumatra have eased to 2/7 upon sales of old shares by holders who are taking up the new issue. In the Borneo group Bode have declined to 2/6, but Tenom have come into demand around 49/- upon the excellent report.

BRITISH TOBACCO CO. OF AUSTRALIA.—Cable advice has been received from Sydney that the directors of the British Tobacco Company of Australia, Ltd., have declared an interim dividend of 3 p.c. on the Ord. Shares.

KASINTOE RUBBER.—The amount brought forward from 1917 was £8,877, from which has to be deducted the loss for 1918, £1,007, leaving £7,870, which the directors propose to carry forward. The directors propose to give shareholders an opportunity to take up, at par, 9,993 shares of £1 each, being the unissued capital of the company.

TRANSVAAL CONSOLIDATED LAND AND EXPLORATION.—A large proportion of the company's assets is now in cash and otherwise liquid form, the gradual accumulation over a number of years, and mainly the result of the realisation of assets. The company does not require so large an amount of cash for carrying on its business, and the directors have for some time been considering the best means of dealing with the accumulation. It does not appear to the directors desirable to distribute an Ordinary dividend, as the annual profits have been, and are likely to be, insufficient to permit of regular declarations on the present issued capital. They consider that the sounder course to pursue is to utilise these accumulated surplus funds to reduce the capital of the company and gradually to bring it down to a figure on which the payment of regular dividends may be expected. After much consideration the directors propose, as a first step in this direction, that a distribution should be made to shareholders of an amount equal to 5/- per share, and that simultaneously the issued capital of the company should be reduced from 971,214 shares of £1 each to 971,214 shares of 15/- each.

The directors of the Reversionary Interest Society, Ltd., have entered into a provisional agreement (subject to acceptance by the shareholders) for the sale of the society's shares to the Equitable Life Assurance Society. An extraordinary general meeting of the Rover Company, Ltd., was held in the Coventry Works yesterday for the purpose of sanctioning an increase of the capital. Colonel Wylie, who presided, moved that the capital be increased to £500,000 by the creation of 300,000 new shares at £1 each. He said that the directors had an opportunity of acquiring a large modern factory, equipped with machinery and ready for the manufacture of a new model light car. The demand for the present 12 h.p. car was very great. Mr. Harry Smith, managing director, seconded, and said that it was proposed to issue 150,000 shares at a premium. The resolution was carried without opposition.

With a view to meeting the requirements of the company, the Board of the United Sumatra Rubber Company propose to apply to the Treasury for authority to issue the remaining 100,000 shares of 2/- each, the balance of the authorised capital. It is intended to offer these shares pro rata to members at a premium of 4/- per share—namely, at the same price as that of the last issue of capital in January, 1913.

The transfer books of Explosives Trades Ordinary shares will be closed from the 14th to the 28th June, both days inclusive.

We (Financial News) understand that a very large proportion of the Abyssinian Corporation issue has been left with the underwriters.

EIGHTEENTH CENTURY MEDICINE.

Dr. John Fothergill is, we imagine, scarcely a name to most of our readers. He has been fortunate in his biographer, Dr. Hingston Fox, who sets before us the activities of Dr. Fothergill as a London physician, deeply interested in science, a Quaker, a philanthropist, and an onlooker in the disastrous conflict which broke out between Great Britain and her thirteen Colonies. These varied interests are sufficient to indicate what manner of man the author wants to place before us. Dr. Fothergill's medical friends included such eminent Dublin doctors as George Cleghorn and John Rutty. His scientific friends included Dr. Joseph Priestley, Mendez Da Costa, and three Philadelphians—John Bartram, William Bartram, and Humphry Marshall. Among the number of his friends Dr. Fothergill had also the honour of including Benjamin Franklin. It is a goodly list, sufficient to show that, if any care to enlarge their knowledge of the eighteenth century, Dr. Hingston Fox has provided a volume which they cannot afford to neglect.

In 1734 John Fothergill entered Edinburgh University, and there is a most valuable account of the teachers in the Medical School. If a writer deals with the history of the Edinburgh Medical School, one of the foremost in the world, it is easy to judge of his fitness for the task. The test is: What place does he assign to the three Monros, who between them held the Chair of Anatomy for the space of 126 years? This is a test which the author passes triumphantly. He assigns them their proper place in the history of the School, and rightly ranks Alexander Monro first. Here and there we are unable to test the author's statements, but when we find him giving such an admirable account of University life in Edinburgh we are prepared to attach credence to the whole narrative. The early career of the young doctor in London is ably presented, and then comes an account of his work in therapeutics. Specialists will read the chapters dealing with malignant sore-throat and with other diseases, but everyone will read the account of the early attempt to grapple with small-pox.

Doctors usually regard with scepticism the cure of disease by empirical rules. The beginnings of the cure of small-pox were made precisely in this fashion. Dr. Jenner heard a maid in Gloucestershire say that she could not take the dreaded disease because she had had cow-pox. He made inquiries, and found that there was case after case where this had cured patients. He worked at the matter and discovered that the empirical method was amply justified by results. In this connection we like to give the story which connects the name of Jenner with that of Napoleon. Jenner desired the release of a British prisoner of war, and wrote a memorial which reached Napoleon. He was about to refuse to comply when Josephine drew his attention to the fact that it was Jenner who made the request. "Ah," said Napoleon, "Jenner! I can refuse nothing to so great a man." From 1761 Dr. Fothergill was investigating inoculation for small-pox, and the author discusses his labours with insight and without claiming too much for them. Catherine II. was anxious to employ the new method, and sent to London in 1768 for an inoculator. Dr. Fothergill recommended Thomas Dimsdale, who went to Petrograd. Dr. Hingston Fox gives us clear accounts of the rise of medical societies in Britain in general and of botanical societies in particular. It was through the advice of Dr. Fothergill, and with a preface from his hand, that the experiments in electricity which first made the name of Franklin were published to the world.

"A friendship," remarks the author, "grew up between Franklin and Fothergill. There was much in the characters of these two men to make them congenial. They were nearly of an age; both were men of uncommon industry, pursuing lives to unselfish ends. Both possessed a keen insight into human nature, and a power of dealing with their fellows, which brought them extraordinary success in their own lines of action. Both were by temperament prudent and patient men, wary in action and in speech. In each the love of liberty was deeply set; and their outlook upon the world was benevolent in the truest sense, so that they were social reformers, in whom the power to see the needs of the community around them was allied with a ready will to apply the remedy. Both, again, were lovers of nature and keen students of physical science. They were both religious, in that a trust in God was the basis of character in each, but its outcome was strict and scrupulous conviction in the case of Fothergill, whilst Franklin's faith was neither rigorous nor dogmatic. Franklin was a man of the world. . . . He was in touch with a wide range of human needs and aspirations, and his pre-eminent talents were exercised upon an international stage."

HERMATHENA.

The joy which greets the return of an old friend is in the case of the present number of "Hermathena"—the first to be published since 1914—somewhat dimmed by the melancholy interest which has attached itself to this issue. Volume XVIII., of which the present is the concluding number, will be distinguished from among its fellows by the singular and melancholy fact that it contains the obituary notices of two great classical scholars and the last-published work of a third. John Isaac Beare was the enthusiastic and painstaking Editor of "Hermathena" from 1904 to 1918. He had looked forward to marking "the advent of peace by the issue of the present number," but the hand of death intervened. Though not so brilliant a classic as Dr. Tyrrell, or so widely-read and versatile as the late Provost, Professor Beare was, nevertheless, a profound student, particularly of classical philosophy. It is a matter for deep regret that "the great book on 'Greek Theories of Feeling,' which he had projected and worked at for many years, has been closed abruptly by death." A man of retiring disposition, he too infrequently appeared on the public platform, though when he did so—as on the occasion of his presidential address to the Classical Association of Ireland in 1916—he never failed to impress his audience as much by his personality as by his erudition and intellectual grasp of his subject. He possessed one great quality which endeared him to all Trinity men—his love for Trinity, of which he was, in truth, "a devoted son."

In this quality Professor Beare had one great rival—the late Provost. Much has been written in the Press concerning Sir John Mahaffy, and his love for his Alma Mater has been universally acknowledged. The two articles from his pen which the present issue contains will be a permanent witness to his keen interest in the history of the most minute details in the organisation and customs of Trinity College. These two essays on "The Origin and Growth of Pensioners in the Colleges of Cambridge and in Dublin" and on "Students' Fees and Tutorial Duties," are the incidental result of his researches among the College archives for facts in connection with the history of the College Plate on which he recently published a monograph. They illustrate not only his love for Trinity, but also the extraordinarily wide range of his scholarship. For instance, he finds parallels to certain College customs—benefactions, in particular—in the taxes levied by Ptolemaic kings and in the aurum coronarium of the Cæsars.

A learned essay on the "Geometry of Complex Variables," by Mr. Robert Russell, and a very able and spirited translation—the Latin text is also printed—of an old Trinity College manuscript entitled "The Romance of Waldef," by Mr. Smyly, complete an issue of "Hermathena" which must be memorable not only for the sad interest that is attached to it, but also in that it marks the return of scholarship to conditions of peace.

"Hermathena." By Members of Trinity College, Dublin. Dublin: Hodges and Figgis. 4/-.

A HINDU NOVEL.

This remarkable book is the first novel dealing with Hindu life that has been written by a Hindu, and it is a most penetrating and analytical study of the effects of Western ideas upon three different types of Hindus. The tale is told by these three characters—the Rajah, a philosopher and an innately religious man, who has had a European education; his wife, Bimala, whom he has educated by bringing her in contact with English ideas and by treating her as an Englishman would treat his wife; and the Swadeshi, or Nationalist, leader, Sandip Babu. The most interesting of these three characters is Sandip, the revolutionary. He is that restless product of modern civilisation, the self-worshipper; he adores power because he believes it to be inherent in himself. He is utterly shameless, for to him it appears that what he is—the self-constituted Isaiah of his country—justifies whatever he does: he is the super-man and can do no wrong. "Let moral ideals remain," he says, "merely for those poor anaemic creatures of starved desire whose grasp is weak. . . . Nature surrenders herself, but only to the robber. . . . Ashamed! No, I am never ashamed! I ask for whatever I want, and I do not always wait to ask before I take it." It is only because his country's interests are identical, for the moment, with his own that he constitutes himself its mouthpiece. He is a worshipper of power—own brother to fear—just because he has the power of the mob-orator, and he lives in an Eastern world where fear is still the ruling passion.

Over against this terrorist doctrine the author has set forth, in the person of the Rajah, the opposing doctrine of love and justice. The Rajah says to Sandip, "You have been so used to submit to domination through fear that you have come to believe that to make others submit is a kind of religion. My fight shall be against this weakness, this atrocious cruelty." The book tells the tale of this fight in which the Rajah is handicapped by his wife's coming under the domination of Sandip. The plot is slight, and almost sordid. Bimala is induced by Sandip to rob her husband's treasury to provide him with funds, nominally for "the cause." The conclusion is vague and confused to such an extent that we do not know whether Sandip met with his deserts at the hands of the Mahommedan rioters or whether he made good his escape. All that we do know is that the Rajah is seriously wounded in a quixotic attempt to save Sandip, and that Bimala is at last awakened to the real character of her one-time hero. In fact, we do not believe that this is the real conclusion at all, but merely the ending of the first episode in the life-story of Bimala and Nikhil, the Rajah. We have found him the most interesting of the three characters because he typifies what a Western education, added to the philosophic and religious Indian temperament, can produce—a truly fine type of cultivated manhood.

TWICE INTERNED.

"Twice Interned" is an uncommon book. The author, Mr. Hopford, fought against us in South Africa, was captured and interned in a concentration camp. Subsequently he was caught in Germany, where he was living at the outbreak of the war, and was again interned. The results of his experiences are in the book before us; and the calm, matter-of-fact comparison by one who at the outset was no admirer of Great Britain is striking. Mr. Hopford's testimony to the treatment by the British of their Boer hostages is uniformly favourable. "I never," he says, "heard of cases of rudeness to women or children or of brutal treatment beyond the fact that homes had to be evacuated, and that often at very short notice." Again, "People had settled down to that sort of life (i.e., in a concentration camp), and, since the war lasted year after year, they seemed to think it might go on for ever. At least I gained this impression from quite a number of people, who declared frankly that they would not mind staying in the camp for the rest of their lives."

With this picture compare Mr. Hopford's fate in Germany. He experienced studied harshness and brutality (he quotes an official statement published by the German authorities to the effect that the English interned at Ruhleben were treated "with the utmost harshness"), scanty food, cold, filth, blows, impending insanity, imprisonment in a cell when he ought to have been in a nursing home. Life was, he says, "a perfect hell." The apparent life and activity at Ruhleben were on the surface only. "One had to be a rank outsider, and a rather blind one to boot, to arrive at the conclusions which Bishop Bury seems to have drawn from his short stay in our midst. All that life, all that activity, was hollow, was without foundation and without purpose; all of it merely served to pass the time and to keep the men out of the lunatic asylum." Space forbids us to quote more freely from Mr. Hopford's book. It should be read by all those "cranks" who would insist on having us believe that South African concentration camps were the last word in horrors, and that, after all, there is little to choose between the British soldier and the Boche.

BALKAN FANCIES.

Captain Mann has, perhaps, sought to disarm possible criticism of his poems by the statement in the preface that they were "conceived for the most part in the midst of tedious and exacting duties, and jotted down on scraps of old Army Forms, derelict envelopes, and the like, at moments when their author was astride a horse, in an aeroplane or balloon-basket, or rushing along the edge of a precipice in some bone-shaking motor vehicle." Though such conditions are hardly the most favourable for metrical exactitude, the author need fear no unfavourable criticism on that count, or, indeed, on any other. He is gifted with a fresh and original mind, and with a never-failing interest in life in general: he expresses his philosophy of life in the lines—

Life is a medley of colours and sounds, of delights and regrets,
Of laughter and tears. It abounds in the love that forgets,
And that deeper affection which casts its own halo o'er all we attain,
The love that for ever outlasts through sunshine and rain.

Even his reveries, such as "A March Morning" or "An August Night," though appealing to the sentimental in the reader's nature, never lose in freshness or drop into the banal. He is a nature-lover, and is able to express his love in well-turned and felicitous phrases. Above all, he is an optimist who, despite the horrors of war, has kept his belief in the innate goodness in human nature. He sings—

Ye mountains hoar,
While back above your snows the bird-men soar
My heart goes with them, for they leave behind
Earth's galling prison chains, perchance to find
A wider sphere for man. Though I disdain
The sad futility of warfare's gain,
I still keep hope and faith in humankind.

Such a spirit never can have known what boredom means even amid the fever-stricken plains around Salonika. It is this unconquerable optimism, this zest of life, which give to these poems their power to stir some of the deepest chords in the reader's heart. We have read many collections of war-poems, good and bad, but it is a long time since we read such an inspriting collection as Captain Mann has brought together. It is inspiring—in these days when one's faith in humanity is being somewhat tried—to read the following lines written on the eve of battle—

Dawn. Now great Nature wakes, it ill beseems
Her worshipper life's mandate to defy.
Thus, ere the hour of battle draweth nigh,
Above the radiant clouds, where Freedom leads,
My thoughts spread out beyond all tongues and creeds;
I know Man's peerless spirit cannot die.

"Balkan Fancies and Other Poems." By Captain A. J. Mann, R.A.F. London: A. and C. Black. 2/6 net.

RECENT FICTION.

This clever novel seeks to prove how superior the young—especially the young people of this post-war epoch—are to the old. It is the story of a young man, unfit to serve, who is compelled to remain in his London office during the Great War. The two boys with whom he shared rooms are victims of the war—one is killed, and the other is maimed for life. Our hero is miserable without them, and falls into the clutches of a demi-mondaine, and they live together. Into this life comes a beautiful and dignified girl, who, by her goodness and charm, saves the situation. The mistress goes on the stage, and we hope that the young lovers will live happy ever after. For ourselves, we cannot see that our author has proved his point. His young people are not superior to many old and middle-aged people of our acquaintance. They have, indeed, a sad familiarity with death which was unknown to the last generation in early youth; but there are other great facts which they have not yet grasped, and which go to make up a fine knowledge of life.

"Pink Roses." By Gilbert Cannan. Fisher Unwin. 7/6.

A first-hand knowledge of naval conditions during war-time lends interest to this story of a pretty woman-spy's machinations on the East Coast. Lucie Mair has been educated in England, and her fellow-conspirator is an officer in the British Navy. It transpires, of course, that they are both of German blood. The tracking down of Lucie is undertaken by the young Lieutenant-Commander, Peter, and by the girl whom he loves, Janet Darley. As each works in ignorance of the other's aim, amusing complications, of necessity, arise.

"Blue Peter." By Paul Trent. Odhams. 3/6 net.

This is a spirited tale of adventure. Roy Beaudry, a city-bred young man, finds himself embroiled in a feud of the lawless West, and incidentally loses his heart to the girl whom he believes to be the daughter of his hereditary enemy. Beulah Rutherford is a fine character, and her largeness of heart stands Roy in good stead. An interesting side-issue is the young attorney's secret struggle with refractory nerves until he attains to physical courage of a high order.

"THE NINETEENTH CENTURY AND AFTER."

The June number of "The Nineteenth Century and After" contains several articles of interest at the moment. Under the general title of "Russia, Germany, and the Allies," three articles—"The Real Russian Peril," "S.O.S.," and "German Diplomacy and the Bolsheviks: Some New Facts"—are contributed by Leonid Andreev, V. Poliakoff, and Frederic Harrison, respectively. An article, "Sinn Fein: Past, Present, and Future," appears from the pen of Herbert Moore Pim, while the question of the Press Censorship is discussed by Major-General Sir Charles Callwell, K.C.B. The Right Hon. Charles F. G. Masterman describes the "Rise and Fall of the Coalition," and J. A. R. Marriott, M.P., writes on "An Historic Budget?" Nationalisation, the Labour unrest, cottage planning, and other present-day topics are also discussed.

Theft of 78 Tons of Coal.—At the Derry Crown Sessions Judge Todd heard a claim by Messrs. Macderette and Donnell, coal merchants, Derry, for £208 compensation for malicious injury occasioned during the recent carters' strike, when 78 tons 14 cwt. of coal were stolen. The applicants' case was that, while the carters and dockers were on strike, they had coal at the quay, and a crowd of 300 or 400 raided the coal, and stole the 78 tons. His Honor reserved judgment.

BUILDING & RECONSTRUCTION

A CHRONICLE OF PROGRESS AND POSSIBILITIES.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE HOME TIMBER INDUSTRY.

A conference, representative of all branches of the British timber industry, is to be held in London in the near future. The arrangements are being made by the English Forestry Association and the Royal English Arboricultural Society. The object is primarily to encourage the use and demand for British timber, to develop the home-grown timber trade, and to encourage forestry. The intention is to invite not only woodland owners and estate agents, but architects, builders, timber merchants, and particularly those who use or specify timber, so as to secure a substantial improvement of existing conditions. Many in the British timber industry consider that every circumstance of these times favours a bold and definite Government policy, with the object of encouraging home industry, at the expense of the foreigner. Before the war there were approximately three million acres of wood in the United Kingdom, and the total annual felling has been estimated at 45 million cubic feet, of which 30 million cubic feet were conifers and 15 million cubic feet hardwoods. On the basis of this estimate the yield was less than 15 cubic feet per acre per annum—a result which it is hoped to considerably improve in the not distant future. During the war, of course, home fellings enormously increased, and very large areas of our woods have been felled for war purposes. There are, however, great quantities of British oak, elm, and other timber still available for the use of the homeland, and also large supplies of pitwood for collieries, and especially native hardwoods for building purposes, railway demands, and reconstructional work generally. Particularly in regard to British oak it is felt there has been neglect to utilise what is undoubtedly the finest wood of its kind in the world. If a revision of railway rates could be effected it would lead to a considerable reduction in the cost of timber to the consumer. This aspect of the position has been emphasised more than once by timber growers, who contend that the railway rates should be no more than the timber will bear, having regard to the price obtained at the consuming centre, which hitherto has been fixed by the price of imported timber.

IRISH HOUSING DIRECTORS.

The Local Government Board have set up a Committee, to advise the Board regarding the Irish Housing Bill, and to carry out, under their directions, all steps necessary for the progress of the scheme, and for assisting the local authorities at every step of progress. The four members of the Committee were—Mr. P. C. Cowan, D.Sc., M. Inst. C.E., the Board's Chief Engineering Inspector, Mr. Hugh A. Law, Mr. Charles H. O'Conor, Chief of the Departmental Committee which inquired into the Dublin Housing and Chief of the Agricultural Wages Board, and Mr. L. E. H. Deane, M.R.I.A., the Board's Chief Architect, with a competent and experienced staff.
